Dear Student

The solution to Assignment 1/2020 is included herein.

Please work through the solutions while keeping at hand your assignment and solution. This forms an important part of the learning process.

Please note that it is of cardinal importance for you to understand why a certain answer is correct, while other options are not correct. We suggest that you redo your assignment under examination conditions and then refer to the solution to determine where you went wrong. This is an excellent learning curve.

You must identify any problem areas early in the semester and do everything in your power to understand all aspects of the work you studied.

We hope you found this assignment stimulating.

All the best with your exam preparations.
