Council Tax Summons

This is standard action that councils take.A court summons will be issued but it is the council that does them. You don't have to attend, it is your choice. It usually states on their paperwork that if you don't attend a judgement will be made anyway. They will issue a notification of a liability order. However, you will never actually receive the original court issued liability order. A little trickery going on there!

I have attached a template for the court summons and one for the liability order notification, when it arrives.

The templates will need to be edited and amended as per usual. Send off the court summons template using the usual method of recorded delivery with Royal Mail.

They will add charges every time they take any action. Its legalised extortion!

Kind Regards

Sharon
