
CALL FOR PAPERS

9th International Conference on International Development

2-4 Sept 2020

Julian Study Centre,

UEA, Norwich Research Park,

Norwich NR4 7TJ.

The 9th PhD Conference on International Development is a student-led event organised by PhD students from the School of International Development, the University of East Anglia (UEA).

The goal of the conference is to bring together recently-graduated doctoral researchers, current PhD researchers and senior scholars in the field of development studies and related fields. The call for papers is not limited to members of the partner institutes and universities.

The conference is an opportunity for scholars of development studies to exchange ideas and present their work to senior academics, fellow scholars and experts in the field.

This conference represents a collaboration with several institutions in Europe: the School of International Development, University of East Anglia (UK); the International Institute of Social Studies (ISS), Erasmus University of Rotterdam (The Netherlands); the Institute of Development Research and Development Policy (IDP), Ruhr-University Bochum, the Institute for Development and Peace (INEP), Duisburg, Essen; Institute of Development Studies, University of Sussex; and the Institute of Political Science (IPS) (Germany).

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS:

- Professor Des Gasper, Professor of Human Development, Development Ethics and Public Policy, at ISS of Erasmus University Rotterdam.
- Professor Kathryn Hochstetler, Professor of International Development, London School of Economics and Political Science.

CONFERENCE THEMES:

1. Environmental justice, climate change and natural resources governance
2. Politics of development: governance, civic participation, aid and institutions
3. Economics of development: insights from behavioural, experimental economics in low and middle-income countries
4. Education, health and social protection: socio-economic and cultural contexts and innovative policies to tackle poverty and inequality
5. Methods and measurement in development studies

ATTENDANCE AT THE CONFERENCE

Current PhD researchers of development studies and related fields are welcome to attend this conference.

The conference is free to attend and includes coffee, lunch and a conference dinner. Participants must provide for their own travel and accommodation. There is, however, inexpensive accommodation available at the campus.
