Part I. MATCHING ITEMS

Match description under column A with Schools of psychology in column B (1pt each). Write your answers on the space provided.

Column A	Column B
E 1. Repressed urges in the unconscious influence behaviour to a large extent	A. Humanistic
D 2. Observable and measurable behaviour is proper subject matter of psychology	B. Functionalism
G 3. Emphasizes basic elements or components of conscious mind	C. Gestalt
C 4. The relationship between parts is more important than individual parts	D. Behaviourism
B 5. Concerned with how the mind allows people to adapt, live , and work	E. Psychoanalysis
	F. Cognitive
	G. Structuralism

@fresh_astu

Part II. MULTIPLE CHOICE ITEMS

Choose the best answer for the following questions and write your answer on the space provided. (1pt each)

A 1. Your ability to focus on TV show while ignoring the noise of your partner's nagging illustrates:

A. Selective attention
B. Sensory adaptation
C. Sensory attention
D. Sensor perception

A 2. According to _____ people have free will, the freedom to choose their own destiny and the ability to become the best person.

A. Cognitive perspective
B. Behavioral perspective
C. Socio-cultural perspective
D. Humanistic perspective

A 3. Which of the following specialties in psychology provides diagnosis and treatment of less serious disorders?

A. Clinical psychology
B. Health psychology
C. Personality psychology
D. Counselling psychology

B 4. A psychologist has designed a special program on how to reduce students' test anxiety. This psychologist is most interested in the goal of

A. Description
B. Control
C. Explanation
D. Prediction

Adama Science and Technology University
School of Humanities and Social Sciences
Humanities Unit

CamScanner

5. The closer an object comes to us, the more our eyes turn inward to help determine its distance from us? This cue to depth is called:
   A. Texture gradient
   B. Convergence
   C. Retinal disparity
   D. Accommodation

6. While you get into a bathroom for toileting, the bad odour is almost disallowing you. However, a few minutes later, it smells as normal a process known as:
   A. Sensory overload
   B. Sensory deprivation
   C. Sensory adaptation
   D. Sensory threshold

7. The method best suited for exploring the attitude of large group of people is _____.
   A. Case study
   B. Survey
   C. Observation
   D. Correlation

8. The brain's tendency to mentally "fill in" incomplete figures to create whole, complete objects is the principle of perception known as _____.
   A. Continuity
   B. Similarity
   C. Proximity
   D. Closure

9. Wilhelm Woundt is considered to be the "father of psychology'' because he:
   A. First emphasized the unconscious causes of behaviour
   B. Emphasized the importance of observable behaviour
   C. First questioned how the mind worked
   D. Established the first scientific psychological laboratory

10. When we look at an ink sketch, we inherently know that we should focus on the black picture as opposed to the white paper around it. In Gestalt psychology this phenomenon is referred to as:
   A. Proximity
   B. Similarity
   C. Figure-ground perception
   D. Closure

11. Absolute threshold measures:
   A. The strongest level of a stimulus that can be detected
   B. The weakest level of a stimulus that can be detected
   C. The difference between two stimuli half of the time
   D. The change of stimuli to neural impulse

12. People more likely to notice a 50 cent increase in the price of a candy than they are to notice a 50 cent increase in the price of a mobile phone device. This illustrates
   A. Absolute threshold
   B. Weber's law
   C. Signal detection
   D. Perceptual constancy

13. Size constancy is _____.
   A. The ability to retain the size of an object regardless of where it is located
   B. The idea that we infer size based on distance
   C. The principle that if separate objects are expected to be the same size, the larger ones are seen as closer
   D. The ability to perceive the form of familiar objects regardless of the angle at whi they are seen

CamScanner