

Acknowledge God

Acknowledging God is; inviting God's presence always into your heart, not sometimes, but always, both in good, bad and things that seems stupid and irrelevant. How many of you say;

" thank you Jesus "

when your phone drops on the floor? Sounds irrelevant, right?

How much you think of Jesus will determine how much He'll reveal and manifest Himself in you. It's as simple as that, the reason why many don't experience more of Jesus is, because they've failed in acknowledging Him at all time. How much you commune with God in your heart is all that matters.

When you talk about your situation more than God, you're no longer concerned or afraid of it, but rather, you're giving glory and acknowledgement that spirit behind that situation. We should know also that God can allow things to happen, but if we see it in a negative sight, it is no longer for God's glory rather you then give glory to a negative spirit. It is either God or the devil, there's no neutral. The more you entertain fear or doubts, concerns through your flesh, you give more invitation to let darkness gain dominance over you.

Whatever you acknowledge gains dominion over your heart. If you acknowledge God, surely He'll gain dominance over you. However, if you acknowledge the beast, a demon rather, he'll gain influence over you. You might say; but those who have been struck with fear knows what I'm talking about. If you're too focused on your situation, instead of using it as a tunic to draw more closer to God, you'll end up inviting a negative spirit to gain Influence over you. You'll begin to find yourself deviating from God, spending less time with Him even though you're free, you'll become also mentally affected, because you've surrendered your entire being to a negative spirit.

" Hey! what's this one saying,"

Acknowledge God, and spend time in His presence always, else you'll find out that although you have Jesus, your relationship will become worse than when you were even occupied in the world.

Acknowledge God always, keep your heart busy in Him, in His word, in hymns, Psalms, spiritual songs, making melodies in your heart, praying always. Then you'll find yourself being dominated and integrated with God. Do Acknowledge God.
