5.1. HYPOTHETICAL CASE 1(15%)

Last year, Biru was driving from Dire Dawa to Addis Ababa when he hit a farmer standing in the middle of the road around Dukem area. Although Biru touted his car's horn loudly, the farmer did not get out of his way. Later on, it was discovered that the farmer was too drunk.

3.1. Give two examples of the mechanisms the Labor Proclamation No. 37712003 uses to ensure employment security. (6%)

Fortunately, the farmer sustained a minor injury. As soon as the farmer was hit, Biru jumped out of his car and picked his victim for help. However, roughly, about 20 people living in the area surrounded

3.2. Mention three requirements for the existence of statehood. (9%)

① A permanent population
② A defined territory
③ government
④ Capacity to enter into relations with the other states

→ The condition of being a state and started beating him up for the incident. In fact, some of the villagers started firing guns into the air. Then, scared to death, Biru immediately got back into his car to avoid further assault. Yet, the villagers continued the assault-they smashed every mirror of his car and continued stoning him to death even in his own car. Eventually, Biru managed to start his engine to escape but as he was circled by the villagers the only way to break away was to run over some of his assailants. As a result, he drove over three of the assailants and managed to escape with his life. He was seriously injured by the assault but he also killed three of his assailants. Now, assume a charge is brought against Biru for murdering the three villagers. As his lawyer, what possible defense will you invoke on his behalf! Explain your answer in light of all relevant elements of the pertinent provision.

Biru

5.2. HYPOTHETICAL CASE II (15%)

Assume that a group of Addis Ababa taxpayers were gathered at the gate of the City Hall during a City Council meeting (last week) to protest a proposed increase in income tax. They were chanting,
"No More Tax..!" They also demanded the Council's representative to come out and speak to them about the new proposal. Contrary to their demand, the head of the security of the City Hall demanded and warned the protesters to leave or face serious consequences. The protesters refused and stayed at the gate. Then, the head called the police and had all of them arrested. Eventually, all protesters were charged for trespass. Their case will be heard in a relevant court soon. In your opinion, have the protesters crossed any red line drawn by the Constitution while exercising their constitutional freedoms? (Your opinion should be based on analysis of the relevant provisions of the FDRE Constitution.)
