The Invention of Refrigerators

Before the invention of refrigerators, people (1)(could / should) not keep food fresh very easily. Some people dug holes in the ground and stored food in them. However, food still went bad easily and a lot of it (2)(had to / could) be thrown away. People who lived in mountains (3)(must not / could not) have seafood in the summer months. This was why salted food was popular at that time. People (4)(can / could) use salt to keep seafood or meat from going bad.

We are lucky to have refrigerators at home nowadays. We (5)(can / must) even freeze food to store it for a long time. But we (6)(must / can) check the condition of frozen food regularly. Keeping frozen food for more than six months is not a good idea because harmful bacteria (7)(can / should) grow even at very low temperatures. We (8)(could not / should) also use refrigerators smartly to help save energy. To save electricity, we (9)(must / must not) let hot food cool before putting it in the refrigerator. We (10)(have / must) also try not to store too many items.

1 Why was salted food popular in the past?

2 Why is it not a good idea to keep frozen food for too long?

3 What are some ways to save energy?

E Write about an invention that has changed our lives. Try to answer the questions and use different modals.

F Read about the invention. Then write about your own invention using there or it with the correct form of the verb be.

I am going to tell you about my new invention. It is called the Cool Hat. It will cool you down in hot weather.

It is basically a cap fitted with a small fan. It looks very simple, but works very well. There is a small fan under the brim of the cap. It is powered by a solar panel on top of the cap. There is also a small switch so that you can control the fan.

It is an amazing invention. Keep cool this summer with the Cool Hat!

There was once a boy named Silus whose mother was very sick. Silus went to see a magician to ask him for advice. The magician told Silus about a magic pear tree in a secret forest. The pears from the magic tree would make his mother better. Silus was very happy to hear this and began to look for the secret forest with the magic pear tree. After a year of searching, Silus finally found the secret forest. However, there were hundreds of pear trees and he did not know which was the right tree. Just then, a beautiful girl appeared in front of him and showed him the way to the magic pear tree. Silus thanked the girl and collected five pears from the magic tree. Before he left, the girl told him to come back the next month for some more magic pears.
