India ranks 110th in Global Food Security Index.

India has ranked 110th in the Global Food Security Index 2023. The index is published by the Economist Intelligence Unit.

The index measures food security across 113 countries. India's ranking has declined from 94th in 2022.

The decline in India's ranking is due to factors such as rising food prices, declining crop production, and increasing malnutrition.
