How to Draw the Easiest nose ever! Nose drawing tutorial via KatCanPaint.com

1} Draw Parentheses

2 } Add two nostrils, about 1/3 of the way up the nose. Same curved shape as the parentheses.

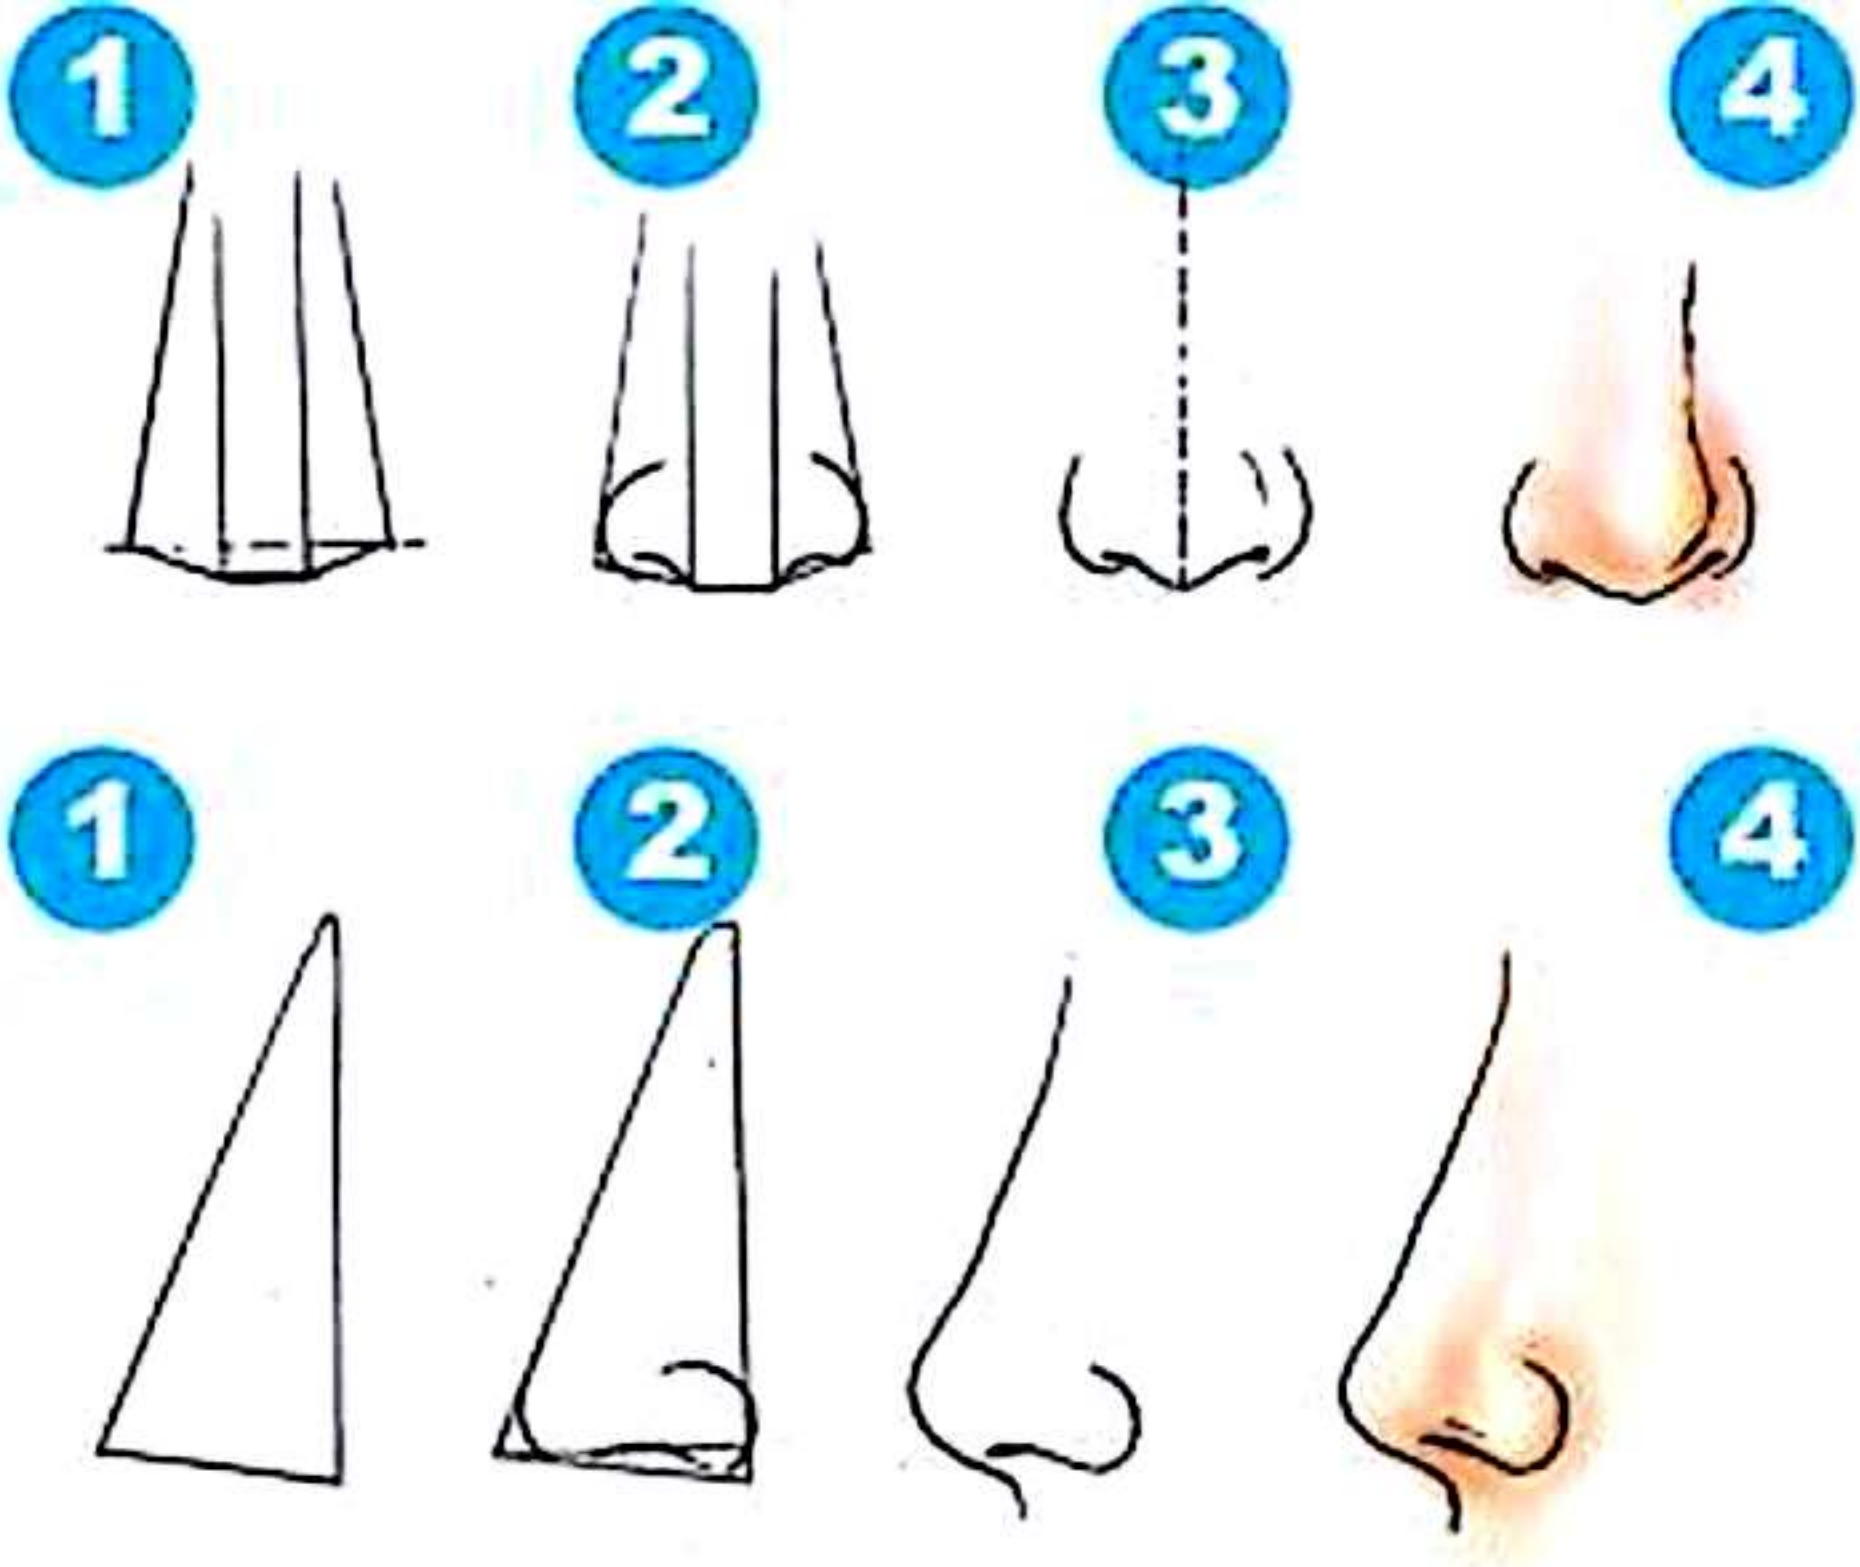

3} Connect the nostrils with a wide, curving U shape. Make sure the slope curves to the bottom of your first parentheses or lower.

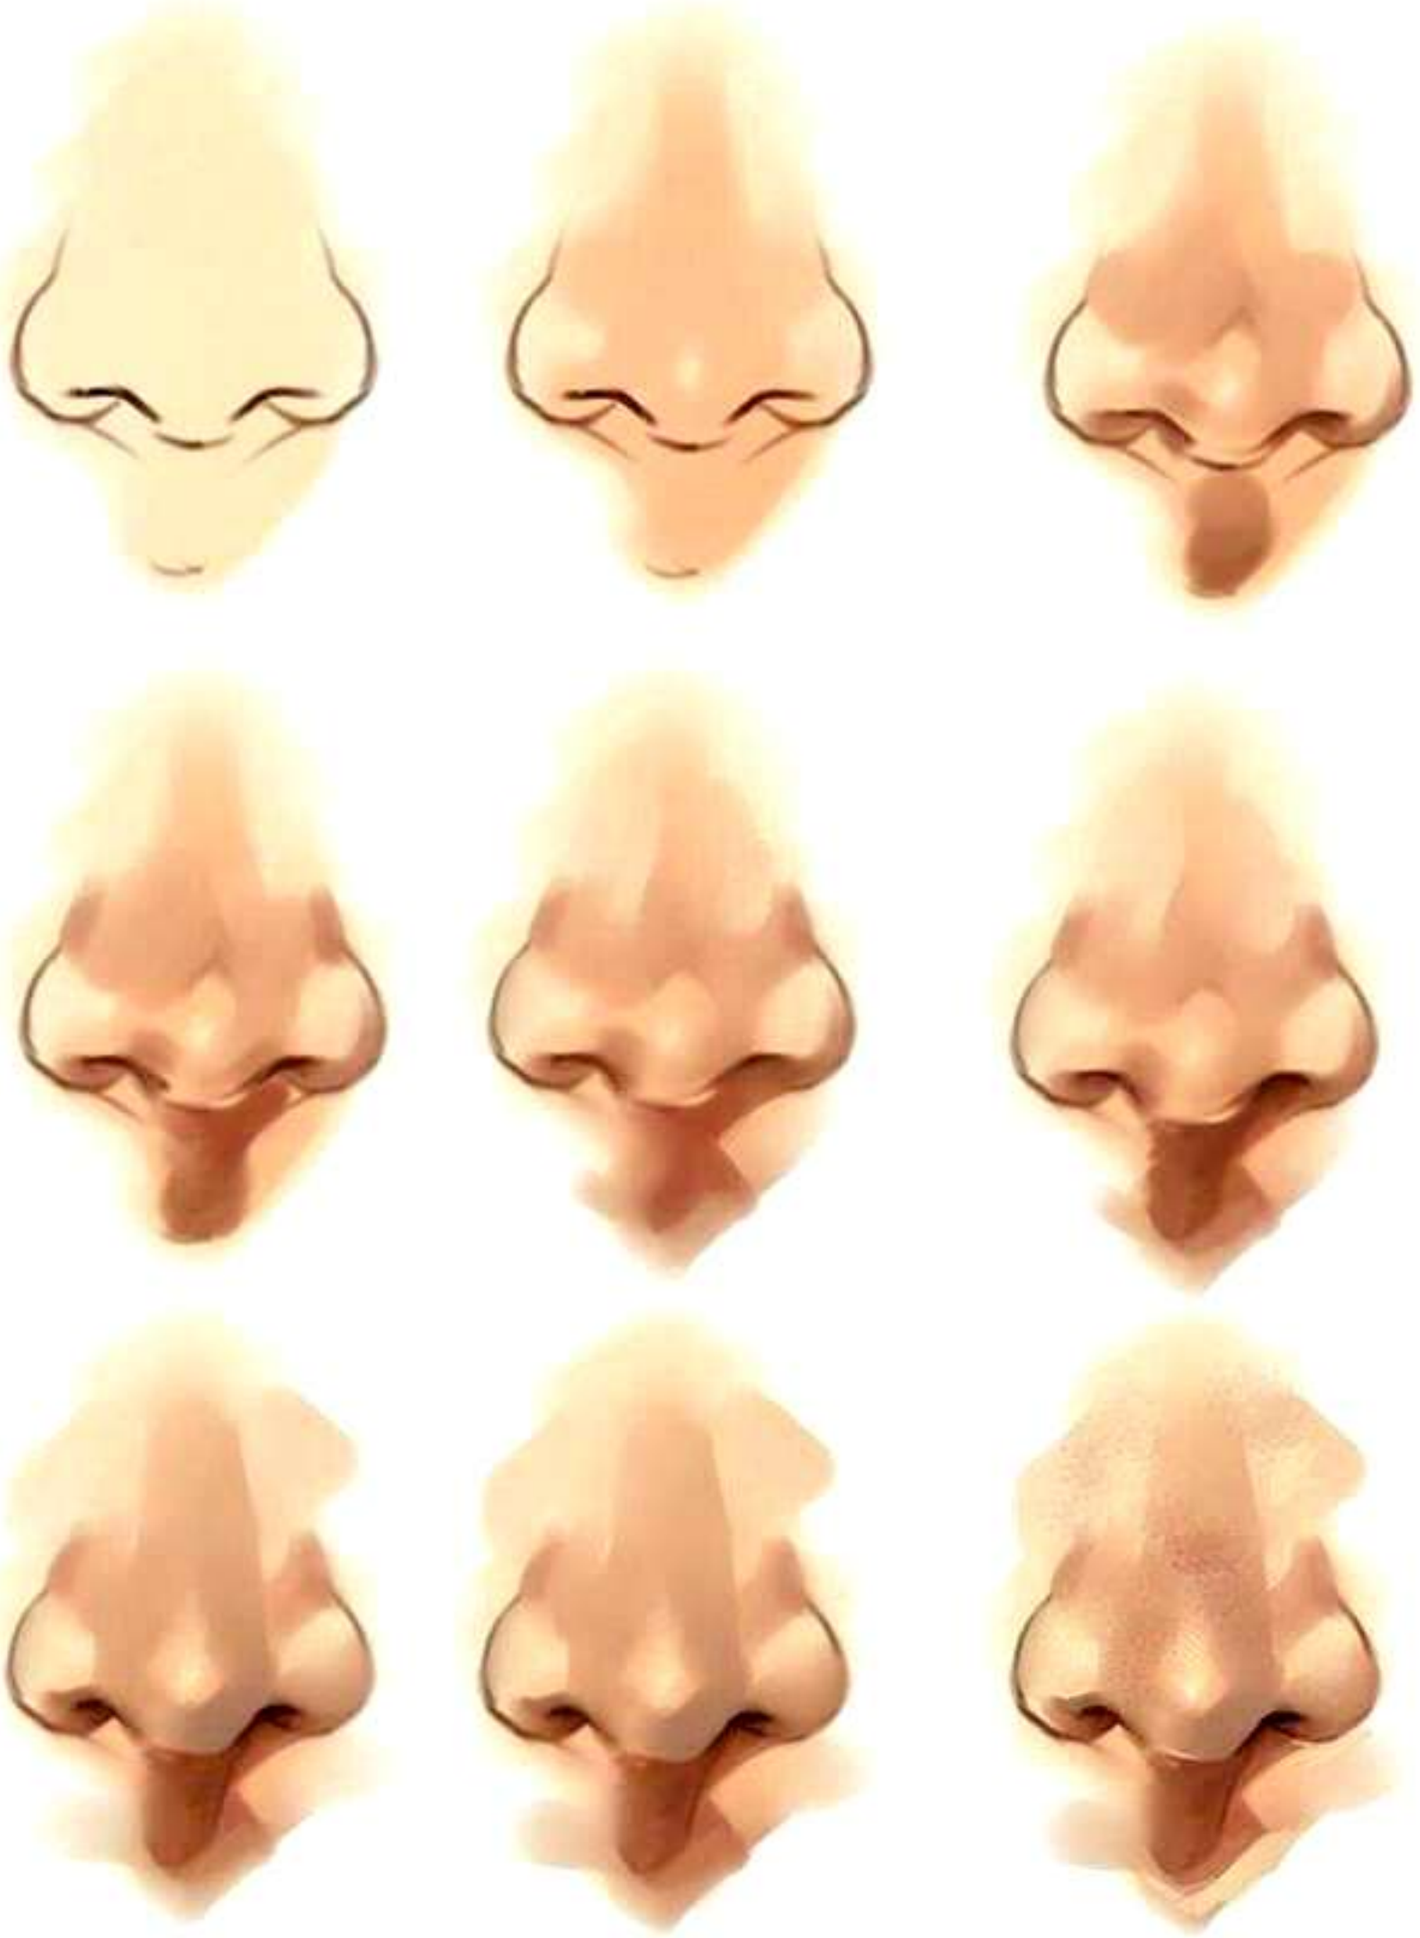

4} Define your nostrils with two more half oval shapes.

How to draw nose
Light and shadow

1. When sketching a nose you can limit the lines just to nofrils. You can add few delicate lines to better imagine the shape in three dimensions which will help you to apply light and shadow later.

2. This example set up a delicate light source coming from top and front. Apply shadow on side areas of the nose. The bottom area will mostly always get a darker shadow unless there is a light source coming up from the bottom. Light goes on the parts which are apart of face the most and also behind nasal wings.

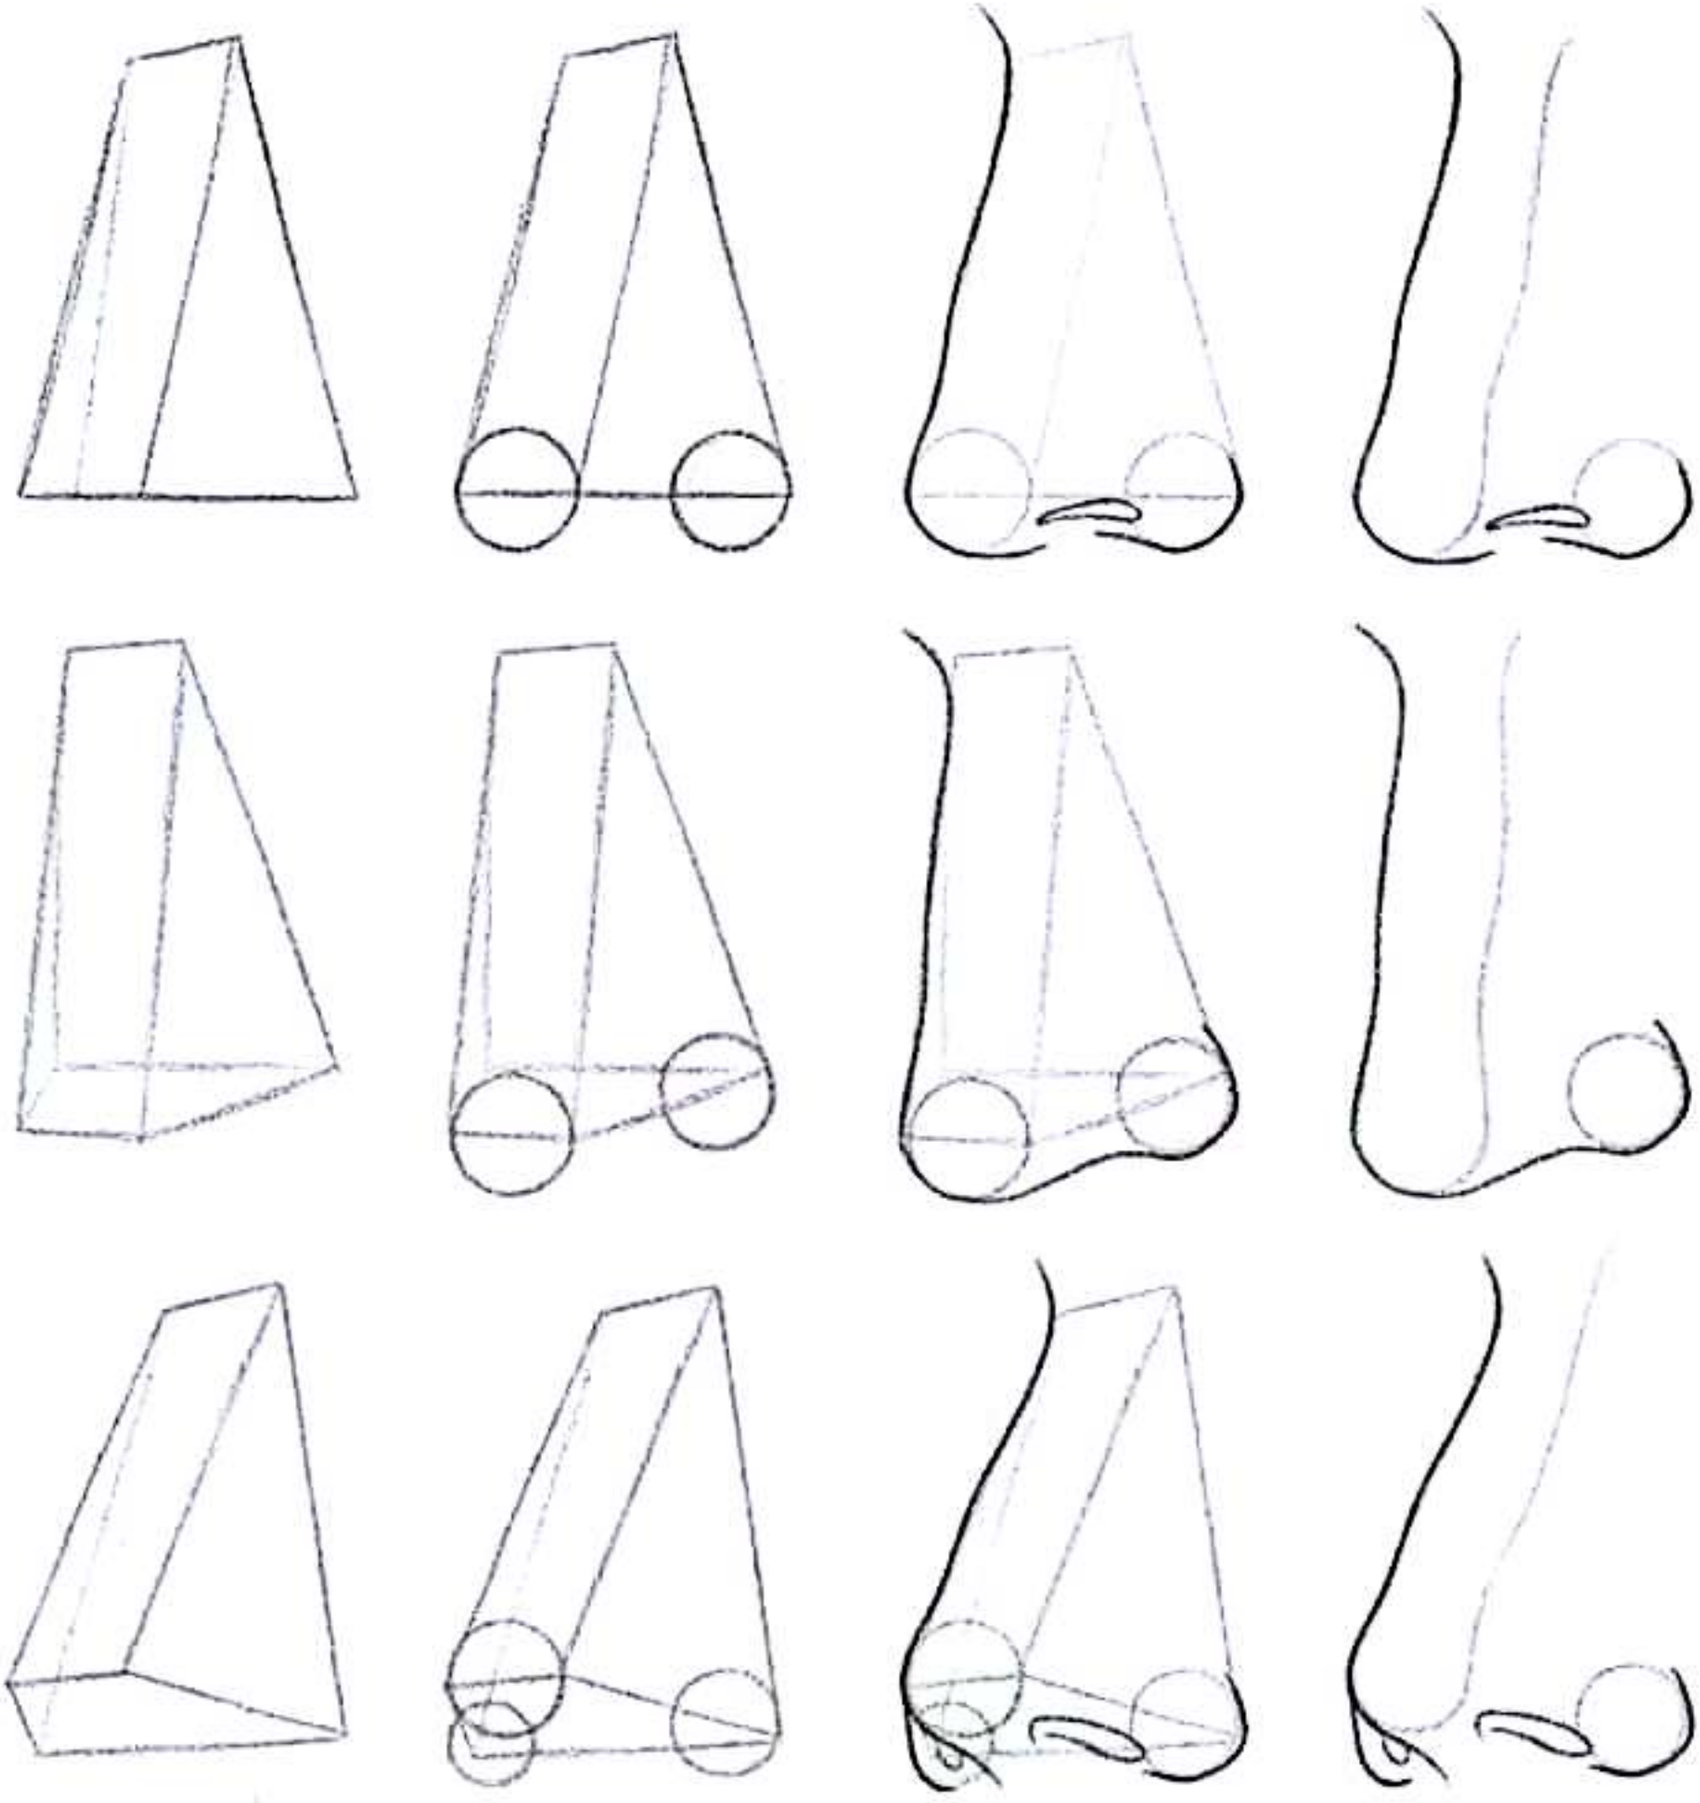

3. Define the shape by delicate shadows on both sides of the nose. The bottom gets a stronger shadowing.

4. Add delicate light on the tip and the area where forehead starts. Sharp light behind the wings will help to distinct it better from the face. You can add few reflexes on tip and top of the nose bridge.

5. You can better define the nose by adding a delicate color. For example nose can become pink or red when exposed to cold. Or when the character is drunk;)

As long as you understand the shape of the nose you can draw it in almost any angle

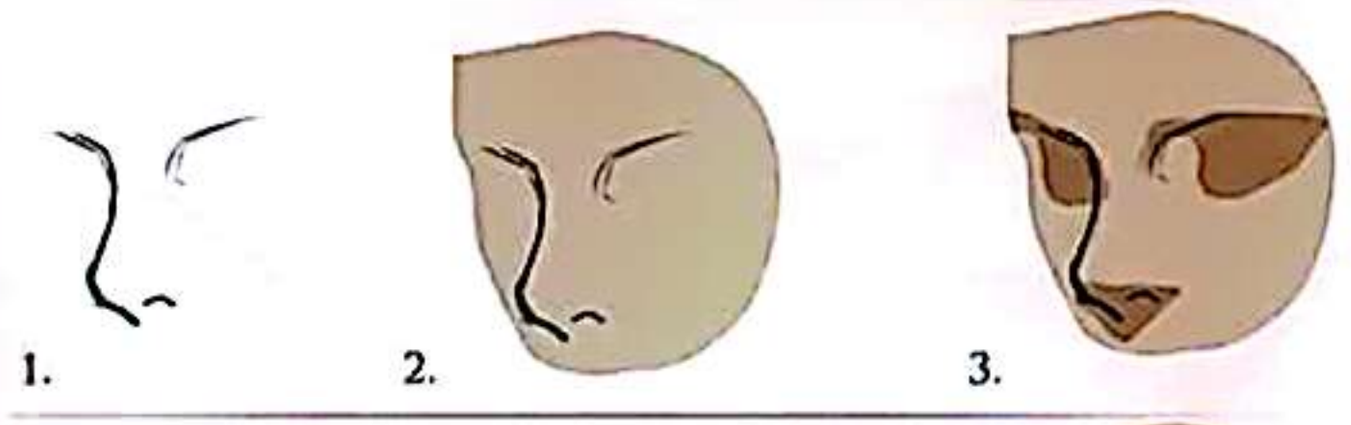

Noses come in all shapes and sizes.

Noses are also used to make expressions

NOSES ARE AWESOME. THEY CAN BE EXTREMELY DEFINING, ESPECIALLY IN PROFILE VIEW.

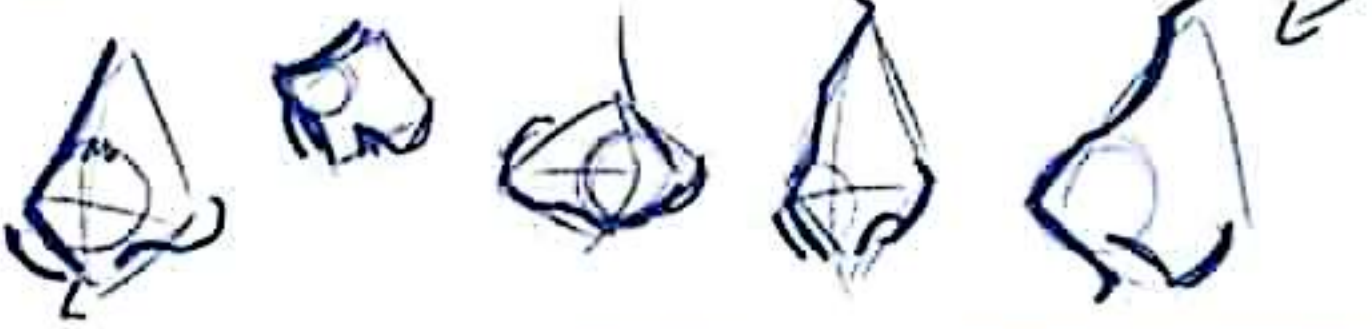

THE NOSE CAN BE SIMPLIFIED TO A SORT OF 3D DIAMOND, WITH A CIRCLE SERVING AS THE BULB OR "TIP"

BUT NOSES COME IN ALL SORTS
