- Mehari went to the cinema yesterday. He had to work the day before, so he wanted to relax. It had been two weeks since he had seen a movie. He wanted to stay at the movies all day, but he had to do some shopping. He rarely has time to shop, so it was important to do it on his day off. When he got the store, there was a long line. The store clerk told him this often happens. He decided to come back later.

- You showed responsibility by doing things you have offered to do, been asked to do or have promised to do. Growing up, your parents will give you many tasks like brushing your teeth, putting away your things, tidying your room and helping out when asked. Your teachers will also give you tasks like completing your homework, putting books away, helping to tidy up and being respectful of others. As you get older, you will often be given more responsibilities. If you are responsible, you will gain more trust. However, you will not be trusted if you are irresponsible. Always do what is right, even if it is difficult.
