Courses and Competencies Identified for Exit Exam 2015 (First Draft)

1. Introduction

Management is a crucial element in economic growth of a country. It brings together the factors of production: money, machinery, men, methods, markets and material to enable the country to experience economic development. A country with enough capital, manpower and other natural resources can still be poor if it does not have competent managers to combine and coordinate the resources. To produce the competitive managers, the exit exam is found necessary to measure the competency of management graduates.

This guideline is prepared to identify focus areas for Exit Exam for Management graduates as part of the structural reform that envisions creating an enabling environment for universities to carry out their mission efficiently and effectively and become a source of knowledge, research and innovation, according to the ministry of education.

This guide aims to measure the graduates if they acquired both theoretical knowledge and practical know-how pertinent to management profession to make sure that they are competent nationally and internationally as can be reflected through graduates' cognitive ability, interpersonal skill, numeric skill and research working skill. This document is also intended to measure the Program effectiveness of all public and private higher education institutions engaged in delivering Bachelor of Arts Degree in Management program in order to implement the Ministry of Education's vision and achieve competitiveness by developing their outputs.

Measuring the effectiveness of Management program and graduates leads promotion in local competition, regional and global, especially if the scientific controls that lead to a real evaluation are taken into account. It leads to honest results that reflect the true levels of these outputs to meet the needs of the labour market as well as providing feedback, based on a careful interpretation of the results, through which weak areas can be reconsidered to be treated. Thus, exit exams for graduates program is the most important tools that provide an honest reading of the level of program outcomes; this is because it aims to measure the learning outcomes of management program that the target audience has been studying over years, for a Bachelor's degree in Management program.
