Child Rights: Principles to Practice e-Learning Course

The current outbreak of coronavirus has led to many children spending more time online. This has raised concerns that there is an increased risk of online-facilitated child sexual abuse and exploitation (CSAE) and child trafficking among other online risks.

This course will share information, evidence based experiences, skills and resources to support you to help reduce the risks and keep our children safe online.

Participants will also be enrolled in our new e-learning Child Rights: Principles to Practice Course
