Bibliography

About this book

In the title, I wanted to use a word of Romani origin. I could have chosen Shuvani for the witch, but it didn't seem captivating. So I introduced a word of Romanian gypsy origin that means witch or witchcraft: Vrăjitoare.

I believe that “Vrăjitoare – Gypsy Magick” became a direct and appealing title.

In occult circles, Magick is spelled with a "K" to differentiate it from illusionism.

In the book I present 160 spells and, in addition, it includes signs (gypsy astrology), prayers, protective amulets and two oracular/dukkering methods (consulting luck using the dice and a dagger).

Most spells are 100% gypsy. I didn't pick quantity, but quality. I could fill dozens of pages with incorrectly gypsy spells (being Afro-Brazilians from Umbanda with invocation of gypsy spirits), but it wouldn't be the same. I chose to include 100% gypsy spells with invocations in Romani, gypsy spells from Ancient Greece, Romania, Slavia, Russia, and others.

The spells are not repeated from other books of mine. In my books, I always try to include spells exclusive to each theme and restricted to the book itself.

So if you buy other books from me, like "Obscure Dimensions and Magickal Systems", "Vampyros Magicae - Real Vampyre Magick", "Magickal Formulary - 620 Spells", "Binding and Dominance Spells", you will find different spells.

I use a pseudonym, Asamod, for being the master of a well-known esoteric order, which is not very inclined to reveal rites and teachings to the profane (secular).

Asamod is a variable of Asmodeus, but in Hebrew, Asamod means “to destroy” and in Persian Azmonden means “to tempt” or “to test”.

I chose the name for the vibration and to symbolize that I intend to break/destroy old paradigms.

The real predecessor root of the term is Aeshma-daeva, a demon from Persian mythology in Zoroastrianism, of fury and lust, but who was sometimes interpreted as "the shining angel"...

Some interpret daēva as "demon", but it is inaccurate, in Hinduism devas are divine spirits, in Persian mythology not all daēva were negative.

Sorry my English.

Introduction

Gypsies have always been people who aroused interest and curiosity, always linked to mysticism, legends, and divination.

Being a nomadic people, the gypsies circulated all over the world. Some came from the Northwest of ancient India, others came from Romania or even Egypt.

They were known as zingars, romas, gitanos, or gypsies. In English, the term gypsies is plural, it began to be used in the 16th century, in French, they said gyptien or æguptoi (this was because due to their dark skin tone, it was said that they would come from Egypt).

In Egypt they are called the "Dom" and it is estimated that about 300,000 live in the territory, including ethnic subgroups such as the Nawar, Halebi, and Ghagar. The Hungarians called these people Gypsy. Currently, the term “Romani” or “Rom” is used because it is believed not to be pejorative; the term means “many”. Romani (Romanese) is also their language and is believed to be made up of over 80 dialects.

There are different lineages or clans depending on the region of their origin.

For example, the Kalé, from Spain and Portugal, the Moldavians from Central Europe, the Kalderash from Romania and the former Yugoslavia, the Matchuaya, also from Romania, among others.

The leader of a group is the Barot.

Gypsies used to read fate (the lines on the hand, palmistry) or cards (cartomancy) as well as make blessings.

The gypsies' own dialect is Romani.

Gypsies do not have an "official" religion; they generally adapt to the religious ideas of the country in which they live, merging them with their own beliefs and superstitions. However, they believe that in the universe there is a positive force (Devel or Dévvel) and a negative force, Beng.

They have a patron saint (Sara Kali). In the prayers chapter, I put some prayers.

Gypsy spells are practically identical to popular spells that we know (both in Portugal and Brazil). As they inspired our culture, it’s obvious that our people also had popular spells, and sometimes there was an exchange of influences between the two peoples.

Like Wicca and Druidism, Gypsy magick is closely linked to nature and the elements (earth, air, water, fire) as well as herbs and their powers and the moon.

The Romani term for witch is Chuvihani or Shuvani (wise person). The masculine term for witch is Shuvano, but Kaku is also used.

Gypsies usually wear long hair, as they believe that if they cut their hair too short, they would lose magnetic power.

In Brazil, in the Umbanda tradition, for example, the gypsy people in spiritual form also have a presence. There are several entities of the gypsy people, namely Pombagiras, to which practitioners make offerings and requests.

Some authors say that gypsy magick only works for good, being white magic, but it is not quite like that. Such authors are not very knowledgeable.

I'm from Portugal, I study gypsy magick, and I've been practicing it for several years. I’ve met gypsies here in Europe, where they predominate a lot. The curses that gypsies can inflict on someone are well known, as well as gypsy amorous attachments. A chicken leg left on someone's doorstep is, for example, a magical warning.

Gypsies believe in life after death and follow all rituals to ease the pain of their departed ancestors. Like the Egyptians, who also worshiped their ancestors, the Aakhu.

Gypsies usually put a coin in the coffin of the dead person so that they can pay the canoeist to cross the great river that separates life from death.

The Pomána is a funeral feast celebrated every thirty days after a person's death until one year has passed. In the ceremony, they offer water, flowers, fruits, and their favorite foods and drinks in abundance, with the intention of expressing the desire for peace and happiness for the deceased. They believe that the person's soul takes part in the ceremony and gradually purges themselves of worldly possessions. Gypsies often make offerings to their ancestors at the tombs as well.

The gypsies, being mostly nomads, traveled all over the world and absorbed ritual magic traditions from other cultures, which also influenced them in sharing knowledge.

So, Gypsy magick has a lot in common with Shamanism, Wicca, Celtic magick, Egyptian magick, Brazilian spells, and so on.

Lunar phases

I like to repeat in all my books that the lunar phases are important. Experienced readers know this, but as there may be some beginning readers, I will repeat this data.

Full moon phase: to attract situations or increase the effect of something. For abundance, fullness.

Crescent moon phase: for growth, prosperity.

New moon phase: introspection, news, new happenings, discovery of something that is hidden.

Waning moon phase: to finish something, transition, end of cycles and situations.

The days of the week are also important and considered, similar to ritual magick.

On each day of the week, or for each specific purpose, the spirit of certain ancestral gypsies is invoked.

Gypsy people are superstitious. A person cannot cast spells on some days considered "bad luck", nor can they cast spells when they are weak or sick.

A woman should not do spells during her period.

When not to cast spells:

January: days 1, 2, 6, 14, and 27.

February: 1, 17, 19 to 23.

March: 11, 26 to 31.

April: 10, 27, and 28.

May: 8 to 12.

June: 19 to 25.

July: 18 to 21.

August: 2, 26, and 27.

September: 10, 18 to 24.

October: 6.

November: 6 and 17.

December: 5, 13.14 to 23.

Crystals: onyx, obsidian, and black tourmaline.

Incense: rue, frankincense, and cypress.

You can also invoke the spirit of Manolo and Pedrowic, for justice issues or behavioral adjustments.

Magick tools

The gypsy people have their own way of working. Their magick is done through dance, and spices, similar to shamanism.

They use various instruments for spiritual cleansing, including:

Fan: symbolizes the air element, assists in the energy cleaning of the consultant, the medium, or the environment. Sometimes it is fanned to create a protective barrier.

Castanets: come a lot from the Hispanic tradition. They are used to evoking or expel spirits. They also serve as protection. They can be used for energetic cleansing during rituals or sessions. They are usually worn around the waist.

Tambourine: represents joy, strength, and movement. It can be decorated with bells and ribbons at the ends. It cleans and purifies consultants and the environment.

Cigarette / cigarillo: used to clean and discharge the environment, similar to candomblé, shamanism, juremeiros.

Powder: used for different purposes. When made for cleaning, they are blown in the corners of the environment, or onto the back or back of the consultant's neck.

Incense: for ritual offerings or to purify the environment and the querent.

Magick wand: as in other magickal systems, some gypsies also use the wand (kosh), used in ritual spells to direct energy, and also sometimes used to feel energies and objects (as in dowsing).

The wand is made with straight wooden branches, handcrafted by the sorceress herself, and some put crystals in the wand. They can consecrate it, for example, in the moonlight or by passing through the water of a stream and saying:

“Katar rook, katar puv, Katar Mamus, Akai sor mi ruzlapen”

Which means:

“From the tree, from the earth, from the Mother, all my strength comes from them”.

Knife: Gypsies always use a pocketknife, dagger, and other types of knives. They can be used for defense, cutting and carving branches, cutting herbs, etc. Sometimes they take the old blade of a kitchen knife and reuse it, putting it back on a new wooden handle (carved by them) and reusing that “ choori” or “churia” knife. It can be used to harvest magical herbs, during a certain lunar phase or simple herbs to make tea.

Gypsy altar

You can prepare an altar to your liking, including elements of the gypsy tradition.

The tablecloth can be white, and you can place two candlesticks, a pentagram (which can be fixed on the wall) or the carriage wheel.

Place a vase with flowers, a gypsy dagger, candlesticks, and a statuette of Saint Sara Kali. A censer.

Also have a small bowl with water. The 4 elements will be represented on the altar.

The bowl represents the water element, the candles represent the earth element (the candle body), and the flame represents fire. The incense represents fire (combustion) and air (its smoke), etc.

You can also place some crystals on the altar; they represent the earth element and catalyze energies.

Incense is frequently used in gypsy magick: sandalwood, jasmine, lily, lady-of-the-night, rosemary, benzoin, eucalyptus.

You can place other adornments on the altar, such as; a fan, a deck of cards, a scarf, a small chest, something that reminds you of the gypsy egrégore.

In gypsy magick, it is usual to place offerings to Santa Sara Kali on the altar, such as: bread, fruits, a chalice with wine, and another chalice with water.

Fruits can be grapes or apples. Also, place flowers in the vase.

The altar is something personal, so customize it to your liking.

A prayer you can say:

“Ocanar ke animas gitanas ke abelar llegar with thie redano zibó, thie at bar lachi y dukata. Dabadar pielo die di hoy, pielo ocasión, pielo Sol but fachó ke shanatu pielo dives but fachó ke lá noche, kereve zibó before fetiches and shuvanisji, per arati del Murro Dahd, currelar murri ke postulación e ke y Vourdakie Rromá, alar dron di dijibe camepé planorrí and furunar thie ac devaslesa, thie o devel”.

Meaning:

"I ask the gypsy souls who are present to come with all their positive strength to help us, I ask for today, for the hours that are, for the sun brighter than the moon, for the day brighter than the night, to protect us of evil and sorcery, by the blood of Jesus, answer my requests and that the Gypsy Wheel, be turned to the feelings of fraternal love and union, may Devel be with us, Amen".

So here are the spells by category:

Friendship

Make peace with a friend

Or get the person's forgiveness.

Items: 1 cup, 1 egg, 1 jasmine incense, 1 white rose, 50 cm of red ribbon, almond oil, pen.

Instructions:

Do it on the full moon. Incense the egg with jasmine incense.

Boil the egg for 10 minutes. Once cool, write the person's name on the tape. Tie the egg with the ribbon and say:

"As the ribbon wraps around this egg, so love and forgiveness wrap your heart for me."

Ask Santa Sara and the Gypsies of Love to cleanse your sorrows and help bring forgiveness between you.

Pour it into the glass, then drizzle with the oil and top with the white rose petals.

Leave it under the bed for 3 days. Then remove the enchantment without the egg breaking, and throw everything into a river or stream.

Love

Get rid of na unwanted lover

If you want a boring person who likes you to move away, cast this spell on the waning moon.

Next to a fire, throw a handful of dried verbena leaves on the fire.

Say:

"Name of that person. Here's my pain, take it and fly. Get away from me now and bother me no more."

Binding spell

Love dolls, gypsy spell

Magic using dolls that represent a person is used in various cultures. In Voodoo, it is used for evil but also for love and health. Other people, such as gypsies, make dolls with wheat straw, corn leaves, or cloths.

Make two poppets, one will represent yourself and the other will represent the loved one.

Inside the dolls place elements of that person that contain the DNA and energetic link (whether it be nail clippings, strands of hair, a small ring or a personal object).

Place them inside the dolls and sew. On the outsider, you can write people's names, the symbol of their zodiac sign, date of birth, etc.

Then name the dolls.

Wet your hand in a basin with blessed water, then sprinkle the doll, and say:

*"Kon si shot Mamus? Kon si shot Dadrus? Ghana ta Herne. Tiro nav si (name of loved one). Muk les si, ta jel sa Duvvel"

Which is like saying: Who is your mother, who is your father? Your name is (name) so be it, go with God!

*When naming a male doll say Duvvel, if female say: Duvveli. Duvvel also means “forces of good” or “God”.

You can tie the two poppets together with red thread, facing each other. Then wrap them in a red scarf, keep in a drawer.

Spell with strands of hair

Items: 2 candles, to be lit for 9 minutes daily, for 9 days. One in your favorite color, one in your loved one's favorite color. Scented rose oil, a lock of the loved one's hair. A lock of your hair, dried lavender, a small sachet of cloth or red cloth. Gold thread, little chain (jewelry, on eBay there are some cheap threads, from 5 USD, but it has to be real gold).

Ritual: Use a needle to engrave your name on the candle that represents you, it can be with a needle. Engrave the name of the person you want to tie on the candle that represents them.

Each candle must be anointed with rose oil. To do this, with a finger dipped in the oil, run your finger along the length of the candle in the four quadrants (up and down four times on all sides). With each run, repeat the phrase:

"With the power of the four elements, I baptize you _____" (use your name for your candle, then the name of the person on their candle).

Place the candles as close as possible to a table that no one will touch or move for nine days.

Tie the gold thread around the candles.

In the small red sachet, put lavender, the hair of the loved one, your lock of hair, and a piece of gold thread on which you will make nine knots. Place the sachet (putsi) in front of the candles.

Every day, at the same time, preferably after sunset, light the candles. Hold the sachet between your hands and repeat these words.

To bring two people together

Items: 1 red glass bottle: if you want, you can paint one with acrylic glass paint, 31 red rose petals, mandrake powder (in esoteric stores), 3 red candles, 3 incense for love/attraction, alcohol, 9 pins, and 9 pieces of black thread.

Ritual: Place the photos of the two people inside the bottle. Light the candles and incense, let the smoke into the bottle. Then shake the bottle, saying:

“By the power of Venus and the spirits of the night, may the hearts of (name of so-and-so) be tied, and that their eyes see no one else”

Pour the alcohol into the bottle and then add the 31 rose petals, the black lines and the pins. Shake the bottle again and say:

“By the power of the roses and the spirits of the night, let the loves of (names) be held here, and by the power of the mandrake, they will be bewitched by the power of love.”

Finally, pour the mandrake powder into the bottle and shake it vigorously, saying each person's name nine times. Seal the bottle with candle wax (wax still soft) and then bury it near the house of the person to be conquered.

At least once a month, go to this place and deposit 31 red rose petals mixed with mandrake powder there, so the energy of the elements remains active.

To join two people

Items: 6 red candles, photos of both, 1 red cloth, virgin olive oil, and a red ribbon measuring 21 cm. Half a bottle of orange blossom water (if you can't find it, do it yourself; let orange blossoms dry in the sun for several weeks, then reduce them to powder in a pestle. Place them in a bottle with distilled water and leave them in the sun for a few days).

Ritual: Place the photos, previously wrapped (face to face) by the red ribbon, in the flask in which they tied 9 knots on a Friday (Venus Day). Pour the orange blossom water into the jar and fill it with olive oil. Close it well. Lay the bottle on the red cloth on the floor. Make a circle with 6 candles around it.

Let the candles burn for a few minutes and drip a few drops of wax on the flask. After a few minutes, extinguish the candles, wrap the flask and red cloth and bury everything near the house of the loved one. The remains of the candles throw in the sea or river.

Bind the loved one

Take 7 keys of any size and tie them with 1 white satin ribbon with your love's name written 7 times. At the end of the ribbon, tie one small padlock. Leave everything behind your bedroom door for 7 days. On the eighth, remove the bow from the keys and repeat your boyfriend's name 7 times. Keys and padlocks can be used as usual. Throw the tape in the trash.

Powerful binding

Items: a pot or cauldron, cinnamon powder, liturgical charcoal, 7 red candles, a needle, drops of your blood.

For his/her feelings and desire to dominate, a red wax candle will be lit, inscribed with the name of the one who will bewitch, smeared in your natural sorceress blood, or the finger that is entwined when marrying.

Drop three drops of blood on the candle, and with a hot pin, you will stick it on a red candle;

Then let the full desire kindle, think about the loved one, and call his/her name. On the brazier, burn your blood with cinnamon, and forcefully recite:

"Martha, Martha, the one that the winds lift, the one that the devils enchant, the one that intoxicates the dead with wine, the one that pulls the teeth of the hanged, the one that digs up the bones of the buried, the one that with Lady Maria Padilha treats and talks .

As this is true, go to the heart of (loved one) and draw three drops of blood; wherever you are, bring it, fast, running, flying, to where (your name) I am.

So tie him/her and tame and put love for me in his/her heart, so that he/she loves me and in his/her memory he/she has me, night and day, wherever he/she is, so that he/she cannot sleep or eat if he/she is not with me, nor another woman (man) can have.

So mote it be!".

Simple spell

Items: buy in an esoteric store a candle in the shape of a red couple, get some honey, a needle, sugar, cinnamon, and a picture of you and your loved one.

Instructions: Write your name on the body of the woman (on the candle) and her name on the man (this represents that one belongs to the other). Grease the candle with honey and sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Light the candle and leave the photo next to the candle.

Once the candle is finished, collect the wax residue and the photo and wrap them in aluminum foil and bury them in a garden.

Join two people

Items: 1 red candle (symbolizes passion), 2 white candles (symbolizes you and your loved one), 1 red thread (10 cm), 1 needle, fine salt.

Instructions: make a circle with the salt that is about 15 cm in diameter.

Take the white candles and with the needle, engrave your name on one and that of the person you love on the other. Tie the candles with the thread, so that they are 10 cm apart.

Place the candles inside the circle. Place the red candle too. Light them.

Focus on the candle flame, then bring the two white candles closer together (symbolizing the couple coming together) and loop the string around to secure them tightly.

Visualize the flame of the red candle, the desire rising within you.

Say:

"Kay o kam, avriable, Kiya mánge lele beshel Kay o kam tel'able, Kiya lekákri me beshav".

Now blow out the white candles and store them in a drawer as an attractive amulet. The red candle can burn until the end.

Binding

Place inside a glass bottle: The full name of the lovers, the photo of the lovers, 1 pigeon's eye bean (Abrus precatorius), 1 goat's eye bean (Ormosia arborea), 1 clove, 1 cinnamon sliver, 1 female dumb cane leaf, 1 male dumb cane leaf (Dieffenbachia seguine) and "binding poder". Fill the bottle halfway with honey and sweet red wine, then cork it. It should be buried at a crossroads or square with an argentine apple and a lit yellow candle on top. Then, write down what you want the gypsy Sandra to do for you.

Wedding

Gypsies, in the culture of their people, generally married the promised man. Marriages were traditionally arranged between two families. Therefore, a gypsy married the man who had been promised to her. Nowadays, in modern times, it is not so much, but it used to be.

So, these spells for marriage were intended for western women. When they were looking for a gypsy, she would give them these tips or do the spell at their request.

Some gypsies, if they by chance fell in love with a non-gypsy (gadjé), also occasionally performed spells aimed at them.

"This ribbon has a knot that will tie you to me."

In the second

"This ribbon has two knots that will tie you to me."

And so on, until you reach 21 knots. Then, tie the ribbon around your wrist and leave it for three days, throwing it into running water (river, stream).

Luck in your marriage

There is an ancient tradition of the bride throwing the bouquet of flowers. It is believed that the tradition originated in ancient Greece.

According to the story, brides gave flowers to the goddess Hera. It was believed that throwing the bouquet also warded off the evil eye.

In recent times, it is believed that whoever catches the bouquet will be lucky and will be the next to marry.

Gypsies had a slightly different tradition. When the bride was about to get married, she wore a coin under her left armpit, and she kept her arm close to her body so the coin wouldn't fall out.

At the end of the ceremony, she loosens her arm, letting the coin fall to the ground. Whoever finds it will have seven years of luck, wealth, and health.

Then pour water over the charcoal and go to a crossroads and bury the container with everything inside. Keep his/her photo in your wallet alongside yours, face to face. You will notice that this person will feel less like going out at night away from you.

Take a full-length photograph of your rival and place it in a jar with soap shavings, a handful of coarse salt, and half a cup of vinegar. Place it in a dark place and cover it. For seven days, shake this bottle well at dawn and at dusk without taking it to the light or looking inside.

The next day, thoroughly clean it and place it on your pillow. The stone must remain with you (while you sleep) for nine nights. Finally, wrap it in a piece of white silk and place it on the pillow of the person you love.

Relationship without infidelity

To live a beautiful love story, buy 1 plant called snapdragon (Antirrhinum majus) and, in the soil of the vase, place 1 note where your name and the name of that person should be written, adding this sentence:

For luck and protection at home

If you enter a gypsy's house, you will find a simple spell for good luck, usually displayed on a small altar. It is an ordinary clay dish, unpainted, with half water and a stone placed in the center. On top of the stone, depending on the time you visit it, there will be a white candle lit.

That's how a gypsy keeps bad luck out of the house. On the plate, he places the round stone, taken from a river current and dipped in brine.

Weekly, the brine must be changed, but the stone must be the same while living in the same room. If by chance he moves, he returns that stone to the river, and when he arrives at the new place where he will live, he looks for a new stone in the nearest stream.

Gypsy magick with a horseshoe for protection

Take a small iron horseshoe and put it inside your left shoe and go to mass for 12 Sundays in a row. After this period, take the horseshoe and place it on the embers of the fire for 12 minutes, repeating the following spell:

"By the power and strength of the Guardian gypsies who protect everything that is valuable, protect my home, doing the necessary energy cleaning and not letting anything or anyone evil enter. Amen!"

You can leave this enchantment mounted and renew the incense and its spell. Incense ashes can be blown out of the room. When you find it necessary, wash the druses and mirrors, and you can use them for other enchantments as well.

Purification bath

Items: laurel, star anise, lemon, water.

Instructions: Bring a liter of water to the boil. Before boiling, turn off, and add the herbs, cover and leave muffled for 15 minutes. Then strain. Take an ordinary bath, and then pour this liquid from the neck down, asking for purification and cleansing of the body and aura:

“I call on the Gypsy Guardians to make my life and all that I have security. May your protection extend to all my family, and may evil never come to our door. May the sacred daggers of the Guardian Gypsies cut off all evil, misfortune, enemies, witchcraft and sorcery be cut off forever. Aminturah!"

Protection talisman

Optional: a small horseshoe amulet.

Instructions: Light the candles, forming a triangle with enough space to place the putsi sachet in the center without danger of burning. Open the red cloth, and place the herbs inside, one by one, enchanting them like this:

“Herbs, your power here, I come to conjure. I ask for protection from any evil, so that they cannot reach me.”

You can now take your crystal (after having cleaned it) and hold it in your hands. Close your eyes and imagine energy coming out of your hands and into the crystal. Say:

“Crystal, I program you to protect me against physical and spiritual dangers. Let nothing hit me, let nothing chase me.”

Put it on the cloth too. Tie with ribbon while saying:

"With this knot, I attract protection. With this knot, I secure magic".

Place the horseshoe on the ribbon, tying it, and ask for luck and protection.

You should hold it firmly with both hands, show the sachet ready for the fire, and pass through the smoke of the incense as you dedicate the space:

“By the powers of fire, I come here to consecrate this talisman, so that I can keep myself. I ask fire, the power of purification, to consecrate this talisman for my protection.

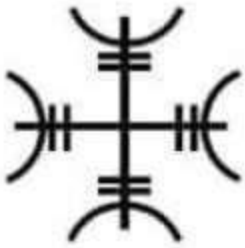

I present this talisman to the air element, so that it may consecrate it to guard me from the evils that my mind can create. I present this talisman to the water element, so that you can consecrate it in the name of the Goddesses, so that my protection is for the soul, the body or the ills of the heart (drip a few drops of water from the altar cup, with your fingers in the bag).

I consecrate this talisman in the name of the earth, so that steadfastness can bring strength, protection, and all evil land."

Make a design that symbolizes protection for yourself with ink or black fabric pen. Leave the sachet between the candles until they finish burning. Then keep it and always carry it with you.

Always hold it in your hands, saying a prayer of protection, so that the energy of your talisman is always recharged.

For example; the runic symbol of protection:

Cleaning broom

In the past, rural people made artisanal brooms with dry branches. In certain regions of Portugal, the name is basculho.

Witches were also known to use such brooms and gypsies too. The dried herbs used served to energetically clean the home.

Items: rosemary twigs, rue twigs, 1 broom handle or large tree branch, 1 white candle, 1 purple candle.

Instructions: Tie the rue and rosemary twigs to the broom handle with a tight string and then tape them. After preparing the broom, light the purple and white candles next to each other, place the broom on the table, and extend your hands over it, and conjure it:

“In the name of God, this broom I come to enchant. By Sara's powers to purify. Where this broom touches, let the environment be clean, and nothing can penetrate. Blessed be you, object of spiritual value. From today you will scare away all evil. So be it and so it will be. Aminturah.”

Leave the candles to burn, and in the meanwhile take the broom, already consecrated, and sweep the house from the back to the front. However, the secret will be that you will not pass the broom across the floor to clean the dirt.

It will represent that you are sweeping; that is, it will literally "sweep the wind". This broom, on the other hand, serves to spiritually clean the house. Pass its branches from back to front along the wall, door, window, and floor. When finished, save it to use for future cleaning. When you see that your broom is old and needs to be replaced, make another one and throw the old one’s branches in the trash.

Purification magick

Items: 1 white chalk, 5 white candles, 1 purple candle, 5 rosemary incenses.

Instructions: Draw a pentagram on the floor with chalk, large enough for you to enter without being burned by the candles around it. Place a white candle, each at one end of the pentagram. Place an incense stick at each end evenly. Light the purple candle, and with it, light the other white candles and incense.

Stand in the center of the pentagram holding the purple candle (you can stand or sit). Say the following prayer 9 times:

“Great mother Sara Kali, in your name I begin this purification ritual. I ask you, great queen of heaven, that nothing and no one can interrupt this work, because here I am protected by the magic and sacred circle of the gypsy current. I ask you to send the gypsy masters who helped me in this phase of my life, where I connect with the spiritual current of purification and cleaning.

Saint Sara Kali, be my teacher and guide in every moment of my life. Protect me from accidents, diseases, and physical and spiritual attacks. I ask that now, as the fire consumes everything that is thrown into it, I ask that this sacred fire of the violet flame and the 5 white flames of purification consume everything that pollutes me, all the negative energy, all the magic done against me, any influence from negative people or spirits.

I request that this fire consume the words hurled at me since the beginning of time, that it consume my negative karma, and that it consume the slander and works aimed at my spiritual path. May the flames of the sacred fire and the light of God Agni illuminate my paths every day of my journey, so that I can always find the right way to go. Find luck, peace, love, and prosperity.

Sara Kali, be my mother and hold my hand guiding me in every way, not allowing my feet to trip over the stones of fate. Thank you, my queen and mother, most high God, and all the masters who were present. Well, without you, I could do nothing. I seal this work with the energy and spiritual force of the current of Kalons and Nomads that rule me. Aminturah."

Protection at home

Have a pot with the Saint George's Sword (Sanseviera) plant. In the soil of this vase, place three metal nails (for attaching horseshoes to horses), arranged in a triangle.

Fend off an enemy

Items: ace of Spades card, 1 black candle, 1 black thread, a red pen, 3 crow feathers.

Instructions: Take an Ace of Spades card and write the enemy's name three times in red pen. On top of the card, place 3 crow feathers and a black candle.

Light the candle and say:

"Let there be no illusion, you are trapped in confusion. Now I send you on your way, depart from me".

After the candle is finished, tie the straw-shaped letter with black thread. Take it to a crossroads and burn the letter.

Protect the house from bad energies

Items: 1 vase of chrysanthemum, coarse salt.

Instructions: Place the vase at the door of the house (inside). Put coarse salt around the vase.

Place the order:

"May Saint Sara and the gypsy people protect my house from evil spirits".

When the flower dies, redo the magic.

Protection amulet

Get a rattlesnake rattle (buy it at esoteric stores) and place it inside a red velvet sachet and sew. Always wear it with you.

Protection from negative spells

Buy 1 gold strand with a small cross pendant, the pendant must also be gold or plated. Put it around your neck and hold the cross with your right hand, and in your left hand you hold a lit white candle.

Look at the sky and say:

"May the supreme power of gold and the gypsy people protect my material and love life, against any magic, spells, and negativities, making my days happier. May the strength of gold, as well as that of the sun, energize this cross, attracting luck to me".

Place the candle on a saucer and let it finish. Always wear the pendant.

Gypsies have always loved fire. The presence of fire is protective. Even today, even when they live in social housing buildings, they usually make a fire on the ground (even if the building doesn’t have a fireplace, they improvise). Here in Portugal, I know some gypsy communities and they do that.

The makeshift bonfire/fireplace is also useful for various spells.

In the hearth fire, you can burn herbs to smoke the house and repel bad energies.

Examples: Angelica root (Angelica archangelica), anise (Pimpinella anisum), cloves (the spice), coriander (Coriandrum sativum), deer tongue (Phyllitis scolopendrium), evergreen root (Virburnum tinus), lavender, verbena, lemon (peels), lilac buds (Syringa Vulgaris), oak leaves and twigs, orris root (Lilium L), rosemary (Salvia rosmarinus), rose petals, St. and wintergreen (Gaultheria procumbens).

Bless the fireplace and the house

Ingredients: 6 laurel twigs or 6 oak leaves, with some aromatic herbs (lavender, verbena, mugwort, juniper, etc.). Coarse salt, 3 white candles.

Instructions: Burn laurel twigs or oak leaves and herbs in the fireplace. Collect some of these ashes with a spoon. Light the three white candles, placing them around the fireplace. Put a portion of the mixture of salt and ashes of the herbs in the fireplace, and say:

«By the power of Santa Sara and the protective spirits of fire, I consecrate this fireplace. Blessed be! Blessed be!

May all the fires that burn here fill this house with warmth, and the light of love and eternal happiness, so mote it be!”

Break a spell

If you feel that someone has done witchcraft on you, take a piece of clothing of yours (or the person in the bewitched family). It can be clothing or another object. Burn everything, and when almost everything is almost finished burning, extinguish it with brandy mixed with purifying salts. The brandy is flammable and will cause more flames, but then the fire ends, and these vapors with the purifying salts act as smudging.

Recite this spell:

“Fire, light up what green covers, from the weak fireplace and the false lamp. Warm fire of our abundance, the blessed flame that rotates the burning, Owls, owls, frogs and witches, spirits of the snowy plains, crows, chicks. Spells of old witches, poor left-handed holes, I fled from worms. With these words, I raise the flames, from the fire like hell.

And so they will flee; the witches on the brooms, will drown in the waves of the sea. Listen carefully: they are the ones who die. The sea swallows them up with its roar. And they cannot escape it. When the fire goes down, we will be free from the evils of the soul and from witchcraft.”

If you want, you can say this prayer while the fire is burning (before putting it out with the brandy).

Translated from Portuguese.

Breaking spells against you

Make the following mixture:

Items: leftover ash from incense, dried remains of anything like magical herbs from some ritual. Dust from your house furniture, crumbs, any crumbs, shredded paper, any paper (if it's a newspaper, better, because it has the energy of movement, speech, and "news"). Chili powder, whatever.

Mix well. Put it in any pot. Now, prepare a fire (either in the cauldron or on the fire). Say the following three times:

“I invoke the power of consuming fire!”

Then, throw this mixture on the fire. Always go gradually, otherwise you will end up putting out the fire. Visualize as a breaking of chains, a breaking of bad energies against you. Say the following incantation:

"I break all witchcraft, all prayer, that nothing bad remains. I drive away with the force of a hurricane!"

When you've finished pouring the whole mixture into the fire, repeat this incantation three more times. Thank the fire spirit, and you're done.

Protect against the evil eye

Spell of the Romani people of Greece.

Which means:

"I invoke the gypsy spirit, who rests in peace, to call the old evil eye and protect me, so that no disease or evil comes to me in dreams or at night in my home, Nyx and Erebus so wish, so mote it be".

Place the parchment under the pillow. After a month, you should burn it.

It is believed that any evil eye you had passed onto the parchment on the pillow.

Every month you must repeat the spell, using a new parchment.

Spiritual defense

A revenge spell against an enemy

Items: photo of that person, salt, sulfur, and 2 matches.

Instructions: Take the photo and put some salt on it, put sulfur on it, scrape the red head of the match on top of the photo.

Say:

"As this salt comes from the earth, so will you, and as I have trodden the earth, so will I tread you."

With another match, light the sulfur in the photo so that it burns, saying:

"Friends of fire, friends of hell, approach this smell, make it suffer, in the salt of the earth and in the smell of sulfur, in its own evil it will sink. The spell is complete."

Remove an unwanted visit

Items: canary seed (Phalaris canariensis), sparrow feathers.

Instructions: It is best to perform this ritual on a waning moon day.

Take the seeds and the sparrow feathers. You must toast them all. Just put it in a mortar (either metal or stone), add a little alcohol and burn it. Then reduce everything to powder with the pestle. When that unwelcome visitor leaves your house, spread some of these ashes on the places he has stepped on.

Say:

«Just as the wings of birds take them away, so and so may fly from here to a place far from my home».

Devolve a curse

When someone has cast a spell on you, get rid of the evil and send the energy back.

This spell is from the Romani people of Greece.

Items: 1 bowl, fine sand, small parchment, 1 black pen.

Instructions: Put sand in the bowl and sing:

"Fac apel la deochi vechi, pentru a incanta acest nisip cu putere."

Which means: I invoke the old evil eye to enchant this sand.

Write the opponent's name on the parchment.

Say:

"obligati deochi această persoană în numele de noapte şi întuneric. Deci, ei nu pot trimite-mi facă rău sau rea voinţă, după cum doreşte el zeiţa, Mote aşa să fie."

Which means:

"Evil eye holds this person in the name of night and darkness. That way, they won't be able to harm me. By the will of the goddess, so mote it be."

Place the parchment in the sand bowl and burn it. Take the bowl outside and let the wind blow the ashes through the air.

Say:

"În numele de Nyx şi Erebusului, obligati aceasta vraja, astfel încât să fie Mote."

Which means:

"In the name of Nyx and Erebus, activate this spell, so mote it be."

Prayers

Saint Sara Kali's Prayer

Ask for intercession for yourself.

Sara Kali was venerated by the gypsies. She is also mentioned in Umbanda regarding entities of the Eastern spiritual lineage.

"Sarah, Sarah, Sarah, you were Joseph of Arimathea's slave. You were abandoned at sea (ask that nothing abandon you: love, money, happiness, health). When you became a saint, you arrived at the seaside, and the gypsies welcomed you.

Sarah, the queen of the gypsies and the mother of the gypsies, helped them. They called you their protector and mother from the water. Sarah, mother of the afflicted, from you I implore protection for my body, light for my eyes to see even in the dark (ask for strength for your eyes, clairvoyance), light for my spirit, and love for all my brothers: white, black, mulattos, in short, to everyone around me.

At the feet of the Most Holy Mary, you, Sarah, will place me and everyone around me so that we can overcome the hardships that the earth offers us. Sarah, Sarah, I will not feel pain or tremors, lost spirits will not find me and just as you achieved the miracle of the sea, to all who wish me harm, you with the waters will make me win (when people are not well and want to solve something very important, you should drink three sips of water).

Sarah, Sarah, Sarah, I will continue to walk without stopping, just as caravans pass. Inside me, everything will pass and the union will remain; and I will smell the perfume of the caravans that pass and leave a trail of joy and happiness.

Your teachings will last.

Love us Sarah, so that I can help everyone who seeks, helped by the powers of our gypsy brothers.

I will be cheerful and understanding with everyone around me. Run in the sky, run on the earth, run in the world and Sarah, Sarah, Sarah will always be in front of me. Just as the gypsies ask, Sarah always stays in front of me, always behind, on the left, always on the right. And so we say: we are protected by the gypsies and by Sarah, who will teach me to walk and forgive.

Amen."

Prepare an altar with the image of Saint Sarah Kali and light a blue candle.

Put flowers, fruits (grapes, apples, pears), and some raw rice in a glass. Say 3 Hail Marys, the first for Sarah, the second for the Gypsies, and the third for you.

Another prayer to Sara Kali

" My dear Saint Sara Kali, you who are the world's only Holy Gypsy,

You who suffered all forms of humiliation and prejudice, you who were frightened and thrown into the sea, so that you would die of thirst and hunger.

You know what fear, hunger, heartache, and pain are.

Do not allow my enemies to mock me or mistreat me.

May you be my advocate before God. May you grant me luck, health, peace and may you bless my life.

Amen."

You can say it in Romani, if you like, for more mantric force.

"Manglimos Katar Santa Sara Kali, Tu Ke San Pervo Icana Romli Anelumia, Tu Ke Biladiato Le Gajie Anassogodi Guindiças, Tu Ke daradiato Le Gajie, Tai Chudiato Anemaria, Thie Meres Bi Paiesco Tai Bocotar, Janes So Si e Dar, E Bock, Thai The Duck Ano Ilô.

Thiena Mekes Murre Dusmaia Thie Açal, Mandar Thai Thie Bilavelma, Thie Aves Murri Dukata Angral O Dhiel, Thie Dhiesma Bar, Sastimôs Thai Thie Blagois Murrô Traio Thie Diel O Dhiel".

Note:

Saint Sara is sometimes called Saint Sara Kali, perhaps due to Indian influences (there is the goddess Kali, in Sanskrit Kali means “dark”, or “with dark skin”).

Saint Sara was a gypsy slave who, according to legend, was thrown into the sea with Mary Magdalene, Mary Jacobe, Mary Salomé, Joseph of Arimathea, and Trofino, in a boat without oars and without provisions. The three Marys began to pray and cry. Desperate then Sara removes the (scarf) from her head, calls for Kristesko (Jesus Christ in Romani) and promises that if everyone were saved she would be a slave of Jesus, and would never walk with her head uncovered as a sign of respect.

All were saved and got off the boat in Saintes-Maries-de-La-Mer, southern France. Sara kept the promise to the end of her life. She became the patron saint of gypsies, and the 24th and 25th of May are dedicated to her. Among the virtues that have been given to them is that of making women with difficulties in getting pregnant fertile. The greatest grace a gypsy woman can receive is the gift of being a mother.

A prayer to the Gypsy King

«O mighty great Gypsy King. That I have come to salute at this hour. I salute the forces of the stars. I salute the waves of the sea. I greet all the gypsy tribes that I invoke at this time. Ask your people for permission to work. I salute the mountains, the valleys, the dewdrops, and the sands. Your people dance happily invoking life and beauty. In your songs, there is the grace of dancing free in freedom dreaming. Your treasures are infinite because no price can pay the value of the freedom of barefoot walking.

Your jewelry has the most expensive shine. Your gypsy men put their hands on their chests to warm their talismans. Your women wave their fans to chase away evil spirits. Your fires have the tallest salamanders that know how to shine in the eyes of your people. Warm us now, oh! Great King so that this prayer cannot end. While a gypsy looking at the sky prays.

Amen."

For protection in travels

For a trip to be surrounded by success and luck, a gypsy usually prays (on departure and arrival) the following passage:

“Blessed are those who walk in the right ways and walk in the law of the Lord. Those who keep his testimonies and seek him with all their hearts are blessed. They do no iniquity, but walk in their ways. I would wish that my ways were directed so that I could observe your laws so as not to be confused and be attentive to all your commandments. I will praise you with uprightness of heart when I have learned your righteous judgments, and I will observe your statutes; do not forsake me, Lord”!

Kabbalistic prayers

Aleph Prayer

A gypsy usually prays the following passage on both the way out and when they get back:

“Blessed are those who walk in the right ways and walk in the law of the Lord.

Those who keep his testimonies and seek him with all their hearts are blessed. They do no iniquity, but walk in their ways.

I would wish that my ways were directed so that I could observe your laws so as not to be confused and be attentive to all your commandments.

I will praise you with uprightness of heart when I have learned your righteous judgments, and I will observe your statutes; do not forsake me, Lord”!

Zaine Prayer

To recognize grace.

“You have reminded me of the word given to your servants, and you have not made me wait. This was my comfort in anguish and the answer to my prayers.

Your word quickened me. When they mocked me, you did not let me stray from your law. I remembered your teachings, Lord, and in them I found help and comfort.

Your commandments have since been my songs instead of my lamentations. All night I remember your name, O Lord, and I try to keep your law.

I kept your commandments and was rewarded. I thank you for that, my God.”

Dalet prayer

To ward off sadness.

“My soul clings to the dust; lift me up and revive me, Lord!

Teach me your commands and guide me down the path of your teachings so that I can speak wonders about you. My soul is now consumed with sadness. Strengthen me, Lord, in the grace of your joy. Let me not confuse your commandments. Make my heart rejoice, Lord, that I may sing your praise again.”

Gimel prayer

To give strength to resist and, at the same time, summon this justice:

“Give justice to your servant, that he may live and keep your word, Lord. Open my eyes so that I may see the wonders of your law.

I am a pilgrim on earth; present your commandments to me. My soul praises your providence. You rebuked the proud and cursed the proud who reproached and scorned me. While they banded together and plotted against me, I meditated on your commandments and cried out for your help.

Well, from you alone, I expect justice. Well, from you alone, I expect definitive help.”

Health

Spell for luck in pregnancy

Gypsies are very lucky. There are various beliefs about maintaining it, from uterine life to old age.

Daily, the pregnant woman usually does a simple ritual so that the child at birth has luck and health.

In the same way, as soon as she sees the first rays of the sun, she passes her hand on her belly. In the same way, as soon as she sees the first rays of moonlight, she repeats the gesture, wishing luck and happiness to the baby.

This is her way of greeting the forces of nature and asking for the blessings of her light for the life that already exists in her womb.

On the seventh day after the child's birth, the mother bathes the baby, throwing coins, gold jewelry, and rose petals into the bath water, so that the son or daughter always knows abundance, prosperity, and wealth.

Offering to ask for vitality

Ingredients: 300 grams of sunflower seed, a small crystal pyramid, solarized water with green quartz, a sunflower flower, a yellow bowl, and an orange candle.

Instructions: Do it on a Thursday and during the full moon phase (but during the day). Put water and the green quartz crystal, leave it in the sun for a few hours, then boil this water.

Place the sunflower seeds in boiling water until they become pasty, then pass them through a colander. Place in a yellow bowl, place the sunflower flower on top.

Next to it, place the crystal pyramid and light the orange candle, requesting your order.

Bath to increase self-esteem

Items: fresh basil (not dried), sugar, fresh rosemary, fresh rose.

Instructions: Except for the sugar, bring all of the herbs to a boil in 2 liters of water. After the water is very green, turn off the heat. When the bath is warm, add some sugar. After taking your hygiene bath, place the bath in a basin and raise it above your head, making the following invocation:

"Saint Sara Kali and the clan of the gypsies of love: pour the purifying and regenerating essences into this bath so that I can get well and that my self-esteem and appreciation will be restored from that moment on. Aminturah!"

To improve one's health and energy

Take a metallic horseshoe nail and bless it in the moonlight and with salt water.

Bury this carnation in the person's garden or in a vase and say:

"So-and-so, now you are fine and healthy, negative energy is dispersed by this nail".

Helping someone quit an addiction

To help someone quit an addiction, be it smoking, alcohol, nail biting, gambling addiction, etc.

Take 9 hairs from the person, wrap them around a steel nail, and hammer that nail into a wooden post.

Get better from illness

Take a copper coin, put salt on it, pour that salt into a metal mug with water, and boil it. Then place the coin in that water and let it cool. Once the water is cool, take the coin and splash the water on that person's wrists and feet (naked, no socks).

Another method is to take a light blue candle, with a needle, write the name of the person on the candle, and then stick the needle in the base of the candle. To make it easier, you can heat the needle first in the lighter flame so it can pierce the candle wax more easily.

Light the candle and let it burn until the end. The needle can be used again in another spell.

Relieve headache

Gypsies believed that putting a steel horseshoe on the forehead, would magnetically absorb the headache.

Another custom was to rub the forehead with a mixture of vinegar and warm water and say:

"Oh duk ándro m'ro shero, the o dad miseçescro, Adá dikhel ákáná, man tu máy dostá, márdyás, Miro shero tu márdyás! Tu ná a tu ándre me."

Which means something like:

"O pain in my head, root of all evil, look at you now. You cause me great trouble, and torment my head. Do not remain in me".

End nightmares or headache

Gypsies sometimes resort to the use of hair in spells. If you have worries, nightmares, or headaches, pull out a few strands of your hair, put them inside a pair of your (used) shoes, and offer them to a beggar.

For child to breastfeed

Sometimes when a child was not breastfed, the gypsies thought it would be a spirit sucking the energy from the milk, so they placed a cut onion between their breasts and repeated:

"Pçuvushi, Pçuvushi, Ac tu náshvályi Tiro tçud ac yakhá, Andre pçuv tu pçábuvá!

Which means something like:

"Earth Spirit, Earth Spirit! Be sick, may your milk be fire! Burn in the earth, flow, my milk, flow, flow, white milk! Flow, flow, as I wish, to my hungry child!"

Hair tonic

To stimulate hair growth.

Take a handful of dried rosemary (Rosmarinus officinalis) and boil it for 5 minutes in water, let it cool down.

Put this water on your head. You must do it under the crescent moon, say three times:

"Te del amen o gulo, del eg meschibo pa amara choribo".

According to the Romanian gypsies, it means "May God give us a remedy for our misfortune".

Recipe for headache

The Scottish Gypsies have a recipe that involves boiling 50 g of Cypripedium root (Cypripedium pubesceno) in a little water for 10 minutes.

Let it cool and drink it every hour.

Against acne

To fight acne, make a tea with yarrow flowers (Achillea millefolium) and with thistle root (Dipsacus sylvestris).

Gypsies said that thistle should be harvested after the first full moon in autumn and then kept in a dark place to dry. Place the thistle in a container (a handful) and cover it with a quarter of a liter of water. Boil it over low heat for 10 minutes.

Put yarrow flowers in a bowl and pour hot water over them. Cover and let them cool for 15 minutes, then strain. A cup of this tea is taken twice a day, before going to bed.

For sore throat

The gypsies prepared a syrup for sore throats, made from the ripe fruits of blackthorn (prunus spinosa).

The fruits were picked from the branches and the leaves were removed. The fruits were placed in a jar and alternated with a layer of sugar and another layer of fruit.

The lid is placed on the bottle and it remains in a dark place for three weeks, after which the syrup in the bottle must be strained and transferred to another bottle.

Add a spoon of honey to this jar.

To have a child

In the past, there were no fertility treatments (today there are, but they cost thousands of dollars and not every couple can use such services). Everyone, including Gypsies, used magick and their faith to bring good fortune and increase their chances of having a child through marriage.

Items: a glass chalice, red wine, needle, 1 white candle, 1 red candle.

Instructions: The husband and wife must perform the spell together.

They pour wine into the glass goblet, and with a needle, they prick the left little finger and let a few drops of blood drip into the wine, he and she.

The man lifts the cup and says:

"With love, we dedicate our blood, so that we can create a new life (child). That is our wish. So mote it be.".

Then he lights the white candle and says:

"I am the father. I will light this candle that will bring harmony to our hearts. We invoke our child."

The woman lights the red candle; now he takes the cup and says:

"I am the mother. I will light this candle and may I carry the child within me, with love and happiness".

The woman gives the cup to the man, who drinks a sip, while she sings:

"This is the cup we share, to bring a new child. Thank you, goddess."

And then the man gives the cup to his wife, and she also drinks a sip.

And then they say:

"We end this ritual, so mote it be."

The chalice with the remaining wine can be left on the altar until the next day.

To alleviate nervousness

Cut the valerian root into small pieces and place them in a large, clear jar. Add the cloves, grated orange peel, and a sprig of rosemary.

Pour white wine over the ingredients in the bottle. Close the container tightly and set it aside for one lunar cycle (28 days) to infuse. Then strain with a gauze cloth or filter, store it in a glass bottle and close it tightly.

Drink one glass of this liqueur three times a day.

Luck

Overcoming an obstacle

When the sun comes up, make a cross on the ground. I recommend going on a dirt path close to the woods. But if you don't have that possibility make a cross with coarse salt on the floor of the house. The cross represents the four cardinal points.

Say:

"The loss is recovered, the hard prison is broken. The enraged sea yields far from the hurricane.".

Offering to open paths (Gypsies Gonzalo and Isménia):

Items: 1 apple, 1 mango, 8 current coins, 1 red rose, 1 red carnation, 3 red candles, 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon, 1 handful of cloves, 3 tablespoons brown sugar, 3 incense sticks (cinnamon, clove and red rose), 1 sheet of red tissue paper, 1 cardboard tray.

Achieve a goal

Take a Jack of Diamonds card and tie it, with an orange ribbon, face-to-face, with a photograph of you, full-length.

Place them behind a mirror where you look at yourself daily.

When you reach the proposed goal, undo the magic. When setting a new objective, do it again, but this time using a new photo, a new letter, and a ribbon. Burn the previous ones.

Open your paths

Items: 1 melon cut into 4 slices, 1 golden cardboard plate, 1 bunch of pink grapes, 1 small red candle, 1 opium incense.

Instructions: Prepare the melon slices on the cardboard plate. In the middle, place the grapes. Light the candles and incense, offering it to the gypsy Wladimir.

Amulet to ward off bad luck

Items: a piece of red silk. It should be real silk, as it has the power to repel negative energies.

Sew the fabric into a small sachet and place inside: six dried red rose petals, one wedding ring (it can be from your mother, grandmother, or a friend), a bean, 3 cloves of garlic, jasmine root, and a piece of coal.

Wear it around your neck.

The amulet sachet in gypsy magick is known as "putsi".

To make wishes come true

This is an offering to the gypsy Jeremi. This entity accepts offerings in fields or roads.

Items: 2 red apples, 2 bunches of green grapes, 2 slices of melon, 2 gold coins (does not have to be gold), 1 blue candle, 1 white candle, 1 glass of white wine, 1 cardboard plate, sandalwood essence, 1 sandalwood incense.

Instructions: Place all of the ingredients on a plate and place it on the road; it could be a dirt road, on the side of the road, or near a tree. Before sunset. You can leave the offering near the trunk of the tree. Grease the candles with sandalwood oil and light them. Light the incense.

Make sure the candles are on the ground, with no grass around them (so there is no risk of fire).

Gypsy spell for opening paths

Go to a field, hug a tree, absorb some energy. Take some chopped fruits (6 different fruits) mixed with cinnamon powder. Pass it on the body and drop it at the foot of the tree.

Also pass: clove powder, sunflower seeds, 1 cornbread broken in half by hand, coins. Rub powdered cinnamon on your hands and let it fall on top of everything. Offer it to gypsy entities and ask for path openings.

For special request

Items: 1 yellow 7-day candle, 7 bay leaves, 7 dollar coins, orange blossom essence.

Instructions: In an appropriate place (altar, table, sideboard, etc.), place the candle on a saucer and drizzle with the essence.

Place the 7 bay leaves around and a coin on top of the bay leaf.

Ask Saint Sara to fulfill your special request. Say the Saint Sara prayer daily until the candle runs out.

Attract good situations

On a crescent moon night, take a mortar and pestle and add some fresh basil leaves. Crush them with a pestle. Add a liter of warm water so that the essences of the leaves combine with the water.

Add 3 drops of your favorite perfume. Take a normal shower afterward, and pour this liquid from your neck down. Don't rinse yourself afterwards; just clean yourself with a towel.

Good opportunities for everyone

Get a bottle of wine, open it and place an aquamarine crystal inside. Replace the cork and leave the bottle in the fridge. At dinner, serve some to each member of the family. Everyone should drink, toast to success, and break glasses.

Get lucky on a special day

This spell should be done on the eve of a day that you consider special and important in your life. Get half a dozen sunflower seeds and place them in an earthenware container. Add a cup of lavender essence. Cover with a white cloth and place under your bed until it is dark.

When the sun goes down, look for a very large tree and bury the seeds near it. After burying it, water it with a glass of white wine, and the empty clay pot should go back under the bed.

When you wake up on your lucky day, remove the bowl from under your bed and leave it outside all day, in the sun or rain, depending on the day. At nightfall, it will attract all the bad luck that would be for you, so break it and leave the shards at a crossroads.

For money and good luck

Take 3 fresh laurel leaves (laurel, used as an ornament on victorious heads since ancient times, has become a symbol of victory in life), and wrap a rolled stone, from a river, on which you will write your request with a pencil. Light a red candle next to it and when you're done, put the laurel and the stone in a bag and always have it in your house.

Work

To get a job

Items: 1 cardboard plate, 1 large melon, granulated sugar, 1 bunch of mint, 1 piece of plain paper with your request written on it, 1 red candle.

Instructions: On a crescent or full moon, in the morning (until 10:00 a.m. at the latest). Take the melon and cut it horizontally without removing the seeds. Place your order inside, fill with granulated sugar and cover. Place on plate with mint leaves around. Light the candle. Take it to a place with weeds and offer it to the gypsy Wladimir, say the following prayer:

"Wladimir, my gypsy, please assist me because I need a job so that I don't go hungry. I ask you, the gypsy who helps the desperate, to come to my aid, opening the doors for me to be happy."

Geting a job

Items: petals of seven white roses, a thick yellow candle (seven days old), honey, and lavender incense.

Instructions: On a Monday, in the new moon phase, take a cleansing bath with 7 white rose petals. Light a seven-day thick yellow candle anointed with honey, under the candle, place a piece of paper with your request. Light a lavender incense and place everything in a high place in your home (top of a closet, high shelf, etc.).

Bath for professional success

Bathing should be done on a Sunday night. In a basin or bathtub, place a glass of white wine where you have previously left an amethyst for seven minutes. Add rose essence and stir the water to foam.

Bathe in this water for seven minutes, soaking your entire body, including your head. When you're done, wrap yourself in the white towel, light a golden candle, and say an Our Father.

Success and luck at work

Get up before 6 am on a new moon or waxing moon Friday to get the daily newspaper (do the spell at 6 am).

Place seven sheets of me-no-one-can (Dieffenbachia amoena) inside the newspaper. Then roll the newspaper into a straw.

Wrap the straw with your photo, then wrap a white and a green ribbon over the photo. Take this straw to your place of work, storing it where only you have access and where no one touches it.

Career progress

On a Friday with a crescent moon, after nine at night, go to the steps of a church, cross out your first name on the second step and the first name of your employer or company on the bottom (first) step, using a steel nail.

On the next crescent Friday, do the same, but two steps up, and so on, until the last step. Continue to the end of the stairs and you'll have a brilliant career.

To deal with a bad boss

If this is your case, use this spell to tame the boss.

Head to a crossroads on a Friday night. Once there, write the chef's name on the label of a bottle of brandy, open it and throw half of its contents around you, forming a circle. Then get out of it, jumping with both feet.

In the center of the circle, light a black candle and place it next to the bottle with the rest of the brandy. Leave without looking back.

Oracles

Gypsy divination with dice

Items: 3 common dice, 1 cup of rain (or river) water, bay leaves, a colored handkerchief, 1 opium incense, a seven-day thick candle, and 8 candles of various colors (except black) for offering.

First, you need to prepare the three dice. Wash them with rainwater or river water. Then, offer food in a gypsy ritual to spiritual entities. The food to be offered is a platter of farofa (flower of Manihot esculenta) made with grated cassava root and candied fruit in pieces. Place eight bay leaves around the plate and one on top of the dice with the number six facing up.

Light a seven-day candle and some opium incense, offering them to the gypsy people of your choice. Let it rest for seven days. While the candle burns, remove the dice and take the dish to a secluded place in the bush, where you should leave it with eight candles of all colors (except black). Be careful not to have weeds around, avoid causing a fire, choose to place the tray with candles where there is only sand around.

Consulting the oracle

Take a patterned scarf (it can be any color except black) and a crystal glass of rain or river water. The glass should be on the handkerchief spread on the table. You can light an incense stick to set the mood. Hold the dice between your hands, tap your foot three times, call for the game owner, and say the following prayer:

"Saint Sara, with your mysteries, can always be by my side. By the force of nature, by the forces of the waters, give me the positive energy to discover what this person (name of the consultant, or yourself) wants."

Then throw the dice on the handkerchief and make the interpretation. The dice only speak three times, so a person can only ask 3 questions before the dice are rolled a total of three times for that person.

Dukkering

The Gypsies used an oracular method known as dukkering. The origin of the term is little known, but it means “reveal something” and “divination”. It consists of engraving on a wooden circle eight words that symbolize good and less good answers. A knife is placed on the round board and the knife is turned as if it were a roulette wheel. The knife blade will stop and indicate the word/answer to our question.

The words were carved into the wood with some nail or sharp iron, and they could then be colored with paint.

Examples of 8 words/answers to engrave on wood:

Yes, No, You should wait, Good news on the way, Beware of false friendships, Love is on the way, A journey, Success in business,

Example:

Yes
false friendships
a travel
new love
No
success, business
good news
Wait
