ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The authors would like to thank the cooperation provided by Dr. Isora Enriquez from Varona Pedagogical University and Ms. Michelle Laufer, former University of Westminster Lecturer and Guest Professor at the Havana Medical Sciences University for their support, suggestions, and useful comments.

Likewise, we also wish to thank Mr. Rob Williams from the University of Westminster and Mrs. Sandra Branco-Williams for their contribution, especially in the support for the drafting of the scripts and the recording of the dialogues.

The authors are grateful of the collaboration provided by the teachers of English and the medical doctors from the Manuel Fajardo Medical School and hospital who expressed their views, comments and support about the content and design. Special thanks to the medical experts Dr. Roberto Larrea Fabra, Dr. Johann Perdomo Delgado, Dr. Lilian Delgado Peruyera, Dr. Fernando Dominguez Dieppa, and Dr. Elia Rosa Lemus Lago, for their criticism, comments and suggestions.

The authors are also grateful for the use of ideas, exercise samples, texts (adapted or abridged) and pictures taken from different sources, especially from the authors of the books English through Medicine 1 and 2. While every effort has been made, it has not been possible to identify the source of all the materials used. We welcome approaches of any copyright holder whom we have not been able to trace but who find that their material has been reproduced herein and we will be happy to include the appropriate acknowledgement on reprinting.

This English4Medics will provide opportunities to develop skills when interviewing an English-speaking patient, when writing a referral letter or a case report or when listening to English speakers at a medical setting and also reading medical articles and journals in English.

Learners taking this course should have reached nearly CEFR B1 level of proficiency in the language at the start.
