1600's	2000's	When to Use
Thou	You (singular)	The subject of a sentence or of a phrase. Thou art lovely.
Thee	You (singular)	The object of a sentence or of a phrase. I gave it to thee.
Thy	Your (singular)	Possessive, when the following word does NOT begin with a vowel sound. Open thy mouth.
Thine	Your/yours (singular)	Possessive, when there's no following word in the sentence or phrase, or when the following word starts with a vowel sound. What's mine is thine. Open thine eyes.

Poetic Contraction or Abbreviation	Modern English Word(s)
‘tis	it is
‘twas	it was
o’er	over
ne’er	never
ere	before
e’en	even
o’	of
an’	and
a’	all
wi’	with
hath	has
doth	does